PREFACE.

Something more than twenty-five years ago, the compiler of this work, at the solicitation of Robert H. Chapman, of Saybrook, commenced making researches with a view to publication of the history and genealogy of the Chapman family in America. As the family were extensively connected with other families of the early settlers, a thorough examination of the records led to great familiarity with all of the families of the town whose ancestors located there previous to 1700. After the "Chapman Family" appeared in print, the author was led to prepare the genealogy of the families of Pratt and Buckingham, who were contemporary with his Puritan ancestors. The "Pratt Family" was issued from the press in 1865. At about that time the author was employed by Senator William A. Buckingham, to complete his collections, which had already been commenced, of the descendants of Thomas Buckingham, who settled first in New Haven, and removed to Milford in 1639, and whose son, the Rev. Thomas Buckingham, located at Saybrook in 1665. After having made very extensive researches, he found that Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Buckingham, of Springfield, Mass., and Charles Buckingham, of New York, had, in concert, some twenty years ago, made quite large collections, with a view, at the time, to publication at some future day. Their collections were finally passed into the author's hands and compared with his which had been much farther extended, and were happily found, in all essential particulars, to correspond. This circumstance, we think, gives essential value to the work, as it is the result of a vast amount of labor, which has been successful in producing a memorial of inestimable value to the family. It is worthy of notice that all of the Buckinghams of the country have been located in their appropriate place in the regular line of descent, with the exception of a few families descended from one William Buckingham, of Pennsylvania, who claim that they belong to a distinct race, but whose account of their ancestor appears so confused and unreliable as to lead us to the conclusion that they are from one of the descendants of Thomas Buckingham, of Milford, that wandered off from the family hearth as late as the third or fourth generation.

The task of collecting the materials for this memorial, has of course been laborious, beyond what any one can realize who has not performed a similar labor. Months have been spent in searching the town records of Saybrook and Milford, as well as the burial grounds of these and other towns, particularly Waterbury and New Milford, where large numbers of the name have resided and still reside. The oldest and largest libraries of New Haven and New York have been visited. The Probate Records of Milford, New Haven, Old Saybrook, Guilford, New London, and Hartford, thoroughly examined; also the records in the office of the Secretary of State, and the State Library, at Hartford. In addition to this, several hundreds of families have been visited, to gather up their family records, and all facts of interest that could be reached, and over one thousand letters have been received in answer to about twice that number written. The compiler assures the numerous living descendants of Thomas Buckingham, that he has spared no pains to make a perfect record. Perfection, however, in such a work, cannot be expected. Great difficulty has often been experienced in decyphering old records and inscriptions, and in reading some of the letters received from aged persons and others unaccustomed to epistolary correspondence. Often, too, the statements in regard to ages, dates of birth, marriages and deaths, of different branches of a family, have conflicted with each other. In some instances no dates can be found, in which case we have attempted only an approximation to accuracy.

It is extremely difficult to avoid mistakes in printing a work containing so many figures, even when the copy is complete.

With few exceptions, we think it will be found that a full and exact record is given. There are, of course, many of the younger generations now on the stage, who have been born during the last few years—since the preparation of the work, which are not included, and may have deceased since the last intelligence received.

The special thanks of the compiler are due to several persons who have aided him in his researches.

To Hon. William A. Buckingham—without whose munificence the work would not have been published—and to his brother, Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Buckingham, of Springfield, Mass., for the use of his extensive manuscripts, collected by him and Mr. Charles Buckingham, of New York.

To Mr. James Buckingham, of Zanesville, Ohio, who furnished, as the result of his deceased brother's labors for many years, John H. Buckingham, a manuscript volume of some four hundred names—a large number of them descended from Ebenezer Buckingham, who with his numerous family located in the wilds of southern Ohio in the early part of the present century.

To Judge Jerome Buckingham, of Newark, Ohio, for forwarding, with much care, the members of his family, and many others more remotely connected.

To the Rev. Dr. Ebenezer Buckingham, of Canton, Ohio, for his correspondence, and the general interest manifested in the success of the enterprise.

To Mr. Henry Buckingham, editor, in Leavenworth, Kansas, for aid in collecting records in his branch of the family.

To George Loveland, Esq., of Wilkesbarre, Pa., for similar labors.

To Miss Mary E. Buckingham, of Paupac, Pa., for extensive correspondence and aid in collecting the descendants of Ambrose W. Buckingham, in the State of Pennsylvania.

Also to Mr. Charles J. Buckingham, of Poughkeepsie, New York, for efficient aid in collecting the descendants of Jedediah Buckingham, of Columbia; and to the numerous town clerks and clerks and judges of Probate, who have given free access to their records.

The work is submitted to the numerous members of the family, in the hope that it will be acceptable, and that it may stimulate the present and future generations to emulate the piety, the love of civil and religious liberty, and that devotion to the common welfare of all which characterized their Puritan ancestor, and his more immediate descendants.

FREDERICK W. CHAPMAN.

THE BUCKINGHAM FAMILY.

THE name BUCKINGHAM,* according to Cambden, was derived from Bucen or Becen, or Beechen—beech trees—and ham, a village, from the number and size of beech trees. In later editions the editor makes it mean the home of deer.† With this agree Bosworth and Gorton. In his Anglo-Saxon dictionary, Bosworth has one mode of spelling the name, Buccingham, and also Bucchenheim. Gorton in his Topographical Dictionary of England, says of the name of the county: "It is supposed to derive its name from the Saxon word, Buccen, from the great number of deer which abounded in its forests." The name of Buckingham as a family name is no doubt derived from the county of Buckingham, in England, the shire town of which is also Buckingham. The dukes of the name derive their title from the county.

In the catalogue of Cambridge University, England, are found the

* It has been a tradition in the family that their ancestor was a Welchman. It is so recorded of his son, Rev. Thomas Buckingham, on the Saybrook Church Records, and copied by Dr. Field in his statistics of Middlesex county, that he "was of Welch extraction." As the old records of the Saybrook church are lost, if there ever were any, and those they now have are of comparatively recent origin, they are only equivalent to the common tradition. The name is, evidently, an old English name, and we should naturally look for it somewhere in or near the county of Buckingham. The impression that he came from Wales arose, doubtless, from the fact that Mr. Prudden came from Hertfordshire, the west part of England, contiguous to Wales, where he preached, and many good people followed him that they might enjoy his pious and fervid ministrations. By looking, however, at his lot at New Haven it will be seen that it was not assigned him in the "Hertfordshire Quarter," as it was called, which Mr. Prudden's company occupied, but is found in "Mr. Gregson's quarter. Now Mr. Gregson was a London merchant, and Buckinghamshire being near to London here is where we might naturally find him, supposing this to have been his origin. He afterwards joined Mr. Prudden's company, in settling at Milford, though not originally of their number.

† May there not be an allusion to this in the fact that the crest on the family Coat o Arms is a deer or stag's head?

following names: John Buckingham, Jes. A. N., 1669; Dennis Buckingham. Car., A. N., 1763; Chandos Buckingham, (Marcho), L. L. L., 1819.

Many of the family in this country have filled honorable and important stations. Eleven have graduated at Yale College, and several at other colleges and seminaries of the country, and a large number have distinguished themselves in the learned professions.

Thomas Buckingham, the puritan settler, and ancestor of all the American Buckinghams, was one of the company to which Eaton and Hopkins, two London merchants, and the two ministers Davenport and Prudden belonged.*

They sailed from London in the two ships the Hector and the ———. They arrived at Boston June 26. 1637, and on the 30th of March following, (1638) this company sailed for Quinnipack, now New Haven, where they arrived in about a fortnight, or in April, 1638. Here we find the name of Thomas Buckingham under the head of "Names of Planters and Division of Land according to Estate and Heads in Families," from which it appears that he had four persons in his family, an estate of £60 (or his interest in the enterprise,) and, in the first division, he received thirteen acres of upland, two and one-half on the neck and five of meadow, and in the second division twenty acres, and his yearly rate for land 10s. 2d. (Vide New Haven Town Records, vol. 1, page 18 of the copy.) His house lot was in what is called "Mr. Gregson's quarter," or the square included between Chapel and Crown, and Church and College streets. George street has since been cut through the quarter, running parallel with Chapel and Crown, and there are circumstances that render it probable the house stood on, or near what is now the corner of College and George streets. If so, it was the lot on which Dr. Lyman Beecher was born. (Vide book of the New Haven Jurisdiction begun in 1652.) The aforesaid land is referred to as "Goodman Buckingham's land that was," in 1683 and, with the barn, inventoried at £35. And in 1700 it is referred to as "that one lot which was Mr. Buckingham's." The title to this property is easily traced. In 1653, January 3d, Thomas Buckingham of Milford, deeds to Jeremiah Whitnell his house and house lot in New Haven. In 1653, March 7th, Jeremiah Whitnell deeds to Thomas Mitchell "the house and house lot bought of Thomas Buckingham." And in 1659 Thomas Mitchell wills his property to his wife and daughter Elizabeth Mitchell.

* The annexed Coat of Arms has been in the family, as is said, from the first settler down, but it is not known to whom, or for what acheivemnt it was granted. Furnished by Hon. Wm. A. Buckingham.

In 1682 Jeremiah Whitnell wills it to Phillip Alcock and wife, and April 23d, 1700, Phillip Alcock, baker of Wethersfield, deeds to John Alcock, (his son) "for fulfilment of the will of my deceased father and mother-in-law, Jeremiah and Elizabeth Whitnell, that one lot which was Mr. Buckingham's, and part of that lot which was Mr. Welch's square up with Mr. Buckingham's"

The only other mention of the name found on the New Haven Records while he remained there, is the following: February 5th, 1639. "Mr. Wilke is ordered to pay Thomas Buckingham 5 bushels and an half of Indian corn destroyed by Mr. Wilke's hogs. (p. 18.)

Thomas Buckingham removed to Milford in the autumn of 1639. He was one of the company of which Mr. Peter Prudden was the pastor who first settled that town. The church was organized at New Haven, Aug. 22d, 1639, and Thomas Buckingham was one of the seven pillars of which it was composed. The church records of Milford commence as follows:

MILFORD.

"The church of Christ at Milford was first gathered at New Haven, upon August 22d, 1639. The persons first joining in the foundation were those whose names are next under mentioned: Peter Prdden, William Fowler, Edmund Tapp, Zachariah Whitman, John Atwood, Thomas Buckingham, Thomas Welch." The following marginal notes also appear on the church records. "John Atwood died in England, July, 1654. Edmund Tapp died at New Haven, 1643. Mr. Prudden died, July, 1656. Thomas Buckingham died at Boston, 1657. William Fowler died in 1660. Mr. Whitman died, April 25, 1666. Thomas Welch died Aug. 12, 1681."

His name stands the fifth on the list of Free Planters, bearing date Nov. 29 1639. His house lot, containing three acres, was a little above the Second Congregational meeting house, to the right, and on the corner where the old Bryan house now stands, (1849) and is still in possession of his descendants on the mother's side.

In volume 1, page 4 of Milford Town Records, is "A Division of land among the several planters in rate of 4s per acre assessed upon it, Nov. 22, and Dec. 6, 1643. Thomas Buckingham, home lot 3 acres, upland, 17 ½, meadow, 8. Page 11, May 18, 1646. "This court doth give Thomas Buckingham a piece of meadow land that layeth at the end of the fence, against Bush plain."

From the records of the colony it appears, "Feb. 24, 1657, Robert Treat and Thomas Buckingham were the Deputies to the General Court."

May 26, 1657, "A question was brought before the court concerning some fence, in difference, betwixt Thomas Buckingham and Widow Plumb of Milford," which Thomas Buckingham and Richard Baldwin, brother of Widow Plumb, adjusted, by agreeing to maintain each a certain portion of the fence. "With which agreement the court was satisfied, and desired them to live in peace and love as neighbors ought to do."

From the note on the margin of the Church Record opposite his name, it appears that he died at Boston, in the fall of 1657, "where he had gone," says one, "on business;" "where he went," says another, "for the church to seek for them a pastor." That his particular business was to find a pastor for the church was more than probable, as Mr. Prudden had died the year previous, and the church was without a pastor at that time. He appears to have made his will before taking his journey, which bears date Sept. 19, 1657. The following notice of his will is found in the records of the colony:

"May 23, 1659. At a court of magistrates held at New Haven for the Jurisdiction, the last will and testament of Thomas Buckingham, late of Milford, deceased, was presented, made the 19th Sept.

1657. Subscribed by Mr. William Leet, and by him witnessed to be the will and mind of the deceased."

"Also an inventory of the estate of Thomas Buckingham was presented attested, upon oath, before the court at Milford, by Ann Buckingham, the widow of the deceased, that it was a true inventory of all the estate and goods of her late husband, to the best of her knowledge, which amounted to £484 3s. 8d. Robert Treat and John Fletcher, appraisers, upon oath affirmed that "the appraisment was just according to their light."

Mr. Buckingham was twice married. 1st. To Hannah ——, in England, by whom he had five children. She died at Milford, June 28, 1646. 2d. To Ann ——. Unfortunately, the family name of neither of his wives has been found. His first wife, Hannah Buckingham, joined the Church at New Haven. Feb. 9, 1639, and died as above. His second wife, Ann Buckingham, made her will which was presented to the court of probate bearing date, Milford, March 18, 1686-7. (For an abstract of her will, see Appendix, note A.)

DECENDANTS OF ELDER DANIEL BUCKINGHAM.

Rev. Thomas Buckingham, son of Elder Daniel Buckingham, of Milford, and Mrs. Alice Buckingham, born March 1, 1761, graduated at Harvard College in 1690. He was subsequently ordained over the Second Congregational church at Hartford, as successor to Rev. Joseph Whiting, who died in 1689. Buckingham street was named in honor of him. He married Ann Foster, daughter and only child of Rev. Isaac Foster, by whom he had three children. He died Nov. 19, 1731, in the fortieth year of his ministry, aged 60. After his decease she married a Burnham, whom she survived, and lived several years a widow. He "was one of the most eminent ministers of Connecticut, and was regarded as one of the Pillars of the church. His superior abilities were under the direction of good principles. His conversation was such as was becoming a minister of Christ. In his life he imitated his blessed Master, and being exemplary in piety, having a pleasant temper, obliging and engaging manners, and many amiable virtues, he conciliated respect and esteem." He published a sermon preached at the election in 1728, entitled, Moses and Aaron. The following passages from it will give some view of his sentiments, and of the times: "By the Spirit, the elect are brought to possess the good which Jesus Christ hath purchased for them. By him they are convinced, awakened, humbled, and converted, sanctified, led, and comforted." "If we look back upon the last year, how many appearances and indications of his anger were there to be observed therein. The universal illumination of the heavens, by repeated and almost continual flashes of lightning, with dreadful peals of thunder attending, the scorching heat and drouth of the summer, the pinching cold and length of the winter, strong winds and tempests, and death of useful men, and the groaning and trembling of the earth under our feet." "Have you not heard some who have risen from among you, speaking perverse things, blaspheming the constitution and order of your churches, denying the validity of your ordinations, and condemning your ministerial acts as so many usurpations; who unchurch the best and greatest part of Christians, and leave you, with the best of your flocks, to uncovenanted mercies, that is, in a state of heathenism, without God, and Christ, and hope in the world, and this merely for the sake of non-agreement with them in a few unscriptural rites and notions." (Vide Allen's Biographical Dictionary.)

It may be noticed here, as a matter of interest, that Mr. Buckingham was appointed as chaplain of the Connecticut troops who went on an expedition to Canada against the French and Indians, in the year 1711. A journal of that expedition was kept by him, probably with no expectation of its ever being published—but it subsequently appeared in print, having been purloined by an officious individual for the purpose. From this journal we learn that he went to Albany, passing through New Haven, Woodbury, Sacket's Farm, Kinderhook, Claverack, and Greenbush. That he preached on the 19th of August, from Psalms 20: 3, and on Sabbath, the 26th, at Albany, from Isaiah 3: 10, 11. From thence they passed through Stillwater, to Saratoga. where he preached on the 2d of September, from Prov. 14: 9. On the 9th of the same month he preached at Fort Anne, in the forenoon from Exodus 23: 25, 26, and in the afternoon from Deut. 5: 22, 33. On Sabbath, the 16th, he preached from Prov. 18: 10.

He writes in his journal, Wednesday, the 19th: "This day I wrote home to my wife and Mr. Woodbridge; also received letters from them by which I was informed of the death of Ensign Bunce, and my Indian Girl, and of the sickness among our folks at home. At the same time an express arrived in the camp with the very melancholy news of the misfortunes befallen our fleet and forces generally." On Sabbath, Sept. 25th, he preached from Lev. 1: 9. He arrived at Hartford on Friday, the expedition having failed.

CHILDREN.

25. Isaac, born September 29, 1700. He graduated at Yale College in the Class of 1718. He is said to have been the child of high hopes, but he sickened and died soon after taking his Master's degree. He was never married, and no record has been found of the precise time of his death.

26. Joseph, born August 7, 1703.

Joseph graduated at Yale in the class of 1723; studied law and resided, during his life, at Hartford; was a man of finished education; enjoyed the confidence and respect of his fellow townsmen, and held, during his life, many important offices of trust, which he discharged with ability. He never married, and died Nov. 29, 1760, aged 57. His property was appraised June 23, 1761. He had two lots of land of 100 acres each, and an undivided right of land in Winchester, appraised at £225. The inventory, exclusive of the above, amounted to £1,013 10*s.* 6*d.*, dated June 24, 1761—quite a sum for those days.

His verbal will, as to his personal estate, was proved in court, before Daniel Edwards, judge, May 8, 1761. Administration on the real estate was granted to his cousin, Rev. Daniel Buckingham, of Fairfield, May 19, 1761. Rev. Daniel Buckingham then took an appeal from the decision of said court, approving of the nuncupative will of said Joseph, to the Superior Court at Hartford, to be held on the 1st Tuesday of September then next, on the ground of being an heir to said estate. At the Court of Probate holden at Hartford June 24, 1761, Daniel Edwards, judge, the court ordered and appointed Messrs. Ozias Goodwin, Daniel Skinner, and Richard Edwards, of Hartford, or any two of them, to distribute the real estate of said Joseph, deceased, to Rev. Mr. Daniel Buckingham, of Fairfield; John and Josiah Buckingham; Jane Treat, wife of Robert Treat, Esq.; Clemence, wife of Joseph Treat, and Alice, wife of Edmond Treat, of Milford, heirs to said estate, equally.

The widow Ann Burnham, (mother of said Joseph, deceased.) on the 25th day of June, 1761, appealed from the judgment of the court in appointing Rev. Daniel Buckingham administrator on the real estate; also appealed from the judgment rendered on the 24th of June—which was allowed—to the Superior Court to be held September, 1761,—administration granted to Ann Burnham, mother of Joseph Buckingham, Esq., deceased, June 9, 1764.

Inventory of personal estate, dated July, 1764, is £541 12*s.* 9*d.* The court granted administration to Joseph Church, Esq., on the estate of Joseph Buckingham, deceased, 1768, probably, in consequence of the death of Mrs. Burnham.

Ann Burnham died in her old age; her will dated August 23, 1764. She gave to the North or First Church in Hartford, her large silver tankard for the use and benefit of said church forever. She gave her kinsman, Joseph Church, of Hartford, a large share of her personal estate; manumitted all her servants after her decease: Cato, Paul, Prime, Ziporah, and Nunny. She gave Cato a lot in the commons, of nine or ten acres, for his life, and the remainder to Prime in fee. She gave to Paul her lot east of the Great River (at five mile), of eight or nine acres, and, to Zeporah and Nunny, she gave £10 each. All her other estate she gave: 1st, to her kinswoman Ann Gooss, and Elizabeth Sleet, who lived near Boston, two shares thereof; to her kinswoman Lemon, one share; to the children of her kinswoman Sarah Jackson, deceased, she gave one share—lived in or near Boston; to her kinswoman Abigail Church, of Hartford, one share; to her kinsman Joseph Church, one share; to Mary Caldwell, one share forever. Joseph Church, Esq., Executor. Her will proved July 25, 1765.

Ann Burnham (the former wife of Rev. Thomas Buckingham, of Hartford), as the widow of her second husband—to carry out the intentions of her only son, Joseph Buckingham, Esq., of said Hartford, then deceased—on the 7th day of July, 1762, gave by deed to the South Congregational Church and Society of Hartford, the house and homestead where she then dwelt, in Hartford, containing about four acres and a half, more or less; bounded east and north on the highway, west on land of Aaron Bull, and south on Daniel Sheldon's land. The said Joseph Buckingham, while making his last will to the above purpose, and before he had fully finished the same, was suddenly removed by death, and said estate fell to his mother Burnham, as next of kin to said Joseph; she desiring that her son's intentions and purposes should be carried out, and for the consideration of her love and regard which she had for said Church and Society, deeded said property to the South Church or Society, and to their successors, forever, as a good, sure, and absolute estate in fee simple without condition. Signed and acknowledged by her, July 7, A. D. 1762. (See Hartford Town Record, Book II., page 233.) Recorded September 17, 1764.

John Buckingham, son of Elder Daniel and Hannah (Fowler) Buckingham, born May 13, 1673, married Sarah ——, who was admitted to the Church in 1698. He died Nov. 17, 1703, and his widow married George Clark, 2d, by whom she had six children.

Capt. John Buckingham, son of David and Chloe (Merrill) Buckingham, born in Waterbury, Oct. 17, 1786; married Betsey Scovill, daughter of James Scovill, Sept. 10, 1809, a lady of most amiable disposition and manners, and well qualified to adorn the large homestead over which she was destined to become the mistress, her husband having inherited the ancestral farm of his grandfather Merrill, in Watertown. He soon became a leading farmer, and for the best part of his life devoted himself to the tillage and improvement of his thrifty domain, making it one of the most productive and attractive in the place. In early life he had quite a fondness for military distinction, became a Captain of State troops, and during the war of 1812–1814, he commanded a company of volunteers to assist in the defence of New London and its harbor, then menaced by the British fleet, under Admiral Holcomb of the Ramilies 74 gun-ship. That the captain and his men, consisting of recruits from Waterbury, Watertown, Bethlehem, Woodbury, and Plymouth, acquitted themselves with honor, was alike creditable to their moral standing, patriotism, and courage. After the close of the war, he received a commission as Colonel in the State militia, which, however, he soon resigned. Possessing only a common school education, he found time to cultivate and improve his mind by extensive reading and intercourse with men and things, which amply qualified him to take a part in town, legislative, and educational affairs, having been repeatedly elected to the General Assembly, both to the House and the Senate, and always faithful to his constituents. He had, also, a taste for general literature, and knew how to appreciate the genius of Shakespeare, and other literary authors of eminence. He was a man of social disposition, and pleasant in his intercourse with his fellow men. About 1840 he entered into business with J. M. L. and William H. Scoville, for the manufacture of various brass and other wares, at Oakville, which a few years later was removed to Waterbury. He disposed of his farm, and removed, in 1851, to Waterbury, still retaining an interest in the Company. His health declining he retired from active business, and in a few years afterward yielded to that stern messenger who spares neither youth nor age. He died May 3, 1867, in the 81st year of his age, having been a life-long member of the Episcopal church, and was buried with Masonic honors, to which order he was much attached. He left two children, and his widow still (1872) survives him.

He enlisted in the army of the Revolution as a drummer, in 1776; became drum-major, and served through the war. He married, May 16, 1784, Anna Punderson, of New Haven, and settled in Watertown, where he commenced business as a tailor, which he was compelled to relinquish in consequence of ill health. After having "ridden post" from New Haven to Suffield four years, and made a voyage to the West Indies, he commenced the mercantile business in Watertown, in which he continued until 1829. He had a genial nature, and was distinguished for decision of character and stern integrity.

Minerva Buckingham, daughter of Nathan Botsford and Rebeccah (Hartwell) Buckingham, born Dec. 29, 1789; married Noble H. Merwin, of New Milford. They resided in Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs. Minerva Buckingham Merwin is said to have been a remarkable Christian in her day. At the date of her settlement at Cleveland, it was a mere village, and, no provision existing for religious services, she, on the Lord's day, with her family, inviting her neighbors, led them to the so-called log courthouse, and opened her Bible, leading the services, until a missionary was sent to minister to the people; and her Christian influence was extensively happy on her own family and the surrounding community.

C. From thence passed over to Alexandria, and was in the defences of Washington, 18 months. He joined the army of the Potomac after the battle of the Wilderness; in the latter part of May was in the battle of Cold Harbor, where Col. Kellogg was killed. After being engaged for some time in the skirmishes about Petersburgh, he was transferred to Sheridan's army; participated in the battles of Winchester, Fisher's Hill, and Cedar Creek. On Dec. 1, 1864, was transferred to Grant's army, and, at the fall of Petersburgh, was one of the first as color bearer who entered the city; followed up Lee, and was at the battle of Sailors' Creek; went to Danville and back to Richmond, thence to Washington, and was mustered out of service. It is a circumstance worthy of special notice, that on one occasion, on a march, his knapsack was struck by a rebel ball, which passed through the folds of his shelter tent, making twenty-four holes, and lodged in a piece of hardtack.

Went with his brother to the battle of Cedar Creek, Oct. 19, 1864, where he was wounded in the leg and hip. From thence he was carried in an ambulance to Newtown Church, and then, after two days, to Winchester, Va.—lay in hospital until January, and came to Summit House hospital, Philadelphia. He came home to Northville in January, and remained forty days on parole, then returned to the hospital in Philadelphia in February, and joined the army just after Lee's surrender; followed the regiment to Danville and back to Burkville. He was then detailed to assist Capt. Smith in the Provost Marshal's office. After leaving Burkville, had command of about 1200 convalescents to take by railroad to Manchester, opposite Richmond, and was discharged on account of his wound, May 23, 1865, having been promoted sergeant at Fort Ellsworth. He died at Northville, June 18, 1869, aged 25 years and one day.

Rev. WILLIAM WOODRUFF ATWATER, son of Ira and Roxana (Buckingham) Atwater, born at New Haven, Nov. 4, 1824; graduated with honors at Yale College in the Class of 1846, and commenced his studies at Andover Theological Seminary the same year; but the next year, in consequence of ill health, relinquished his studies, and in the fall of 1847 went to Goldsborough, North Carolina, and taught a high school. Having recovered his health, he returned to New Haven and completed his theological studies in the Seminary at Yale, from which he graduated in 1850. In the same year, he accepted a home missionary field in Lima, Michigan, and was ordained in December, 1850, to the gospel ministry. After laboring there two years, he received a call to the Congregational church in the city of Niles, Michigan, which he accepted. From thence he received a call to Hudson, Michigan, in 1854, and removed there.

By his labors in that place the church became released from its dependence on the Home Missionary Society, and a self-supporting church. In 1856 he commenced labors with the Congregational church in the large and flourishing town of Elkhart, Indiana. While there the church was doubled under his labors in its numbers and strength, by a powerful revival. After remaining there three years, his health and that of his family requiring a change, he returned to the East, and commenced preaching in Prospect, in June, 1860; was installed Pastor in October of the same year, where he had a happy and prosperous ministry of about six years, attended with seasons of marked spiritual interest. Receiving a call to West Avon Congregational church, he commenced labors there in Jan., 1866. In that place, also, a deeply interesting work of grace was enjoyed, which resulted in an addition of twenty-five members to the church, and the hopeful conversion of many others. In August, 1869, he commenced labors at South Killingly, where he still continues (1871). He married, Sept. 27, 1847, Mary Elisabeth Olmsted, daughter of Ashbel and Eliza E. Olmsted, of Bridgeport, Conn.

Col. Philo B. Buckingham, son of Deacon Aurelius and Laura (Beebe) Buckingham, born June 6, 1820; married Sally C. Perkins, Oct. 12, 1842. She was born June 1, 1823.

Col. Buckingham commenced life as a farmer, being engaged during the winter season as a teacher of public schools from 1840 to 1849. For 12 years following was a railroad agent, during which time he held many other public trusts;—as chairman of board of school visitors, treasurer of savings bank; receiver of Bank of North America, at Seymour, which had failed, being appointed to that station by the supreme court. He was State senator of the 5th senatorial district of Connecticut in 1855; was also extensively engaged in manufacturing interests, as copper, silk, and car axles. During the summer of 1862 he closed up his business and raised a company of volunteers, enlisting as a private in the same company, for three years, or during the war; was chosen captain of the same company, which was mustered into the military service of the United States as Company H of 20th Regiment of Volunteer Infantry. Before receiving commission as captain, was appointed major of said regiment, and mustered into military service of the United States as major of volunteers, when the regiment was ordered to Washington. He left the State with the regiment, Sept. 11, 1862, went to Capitol Hill, thence to Arlington Hights, Harper's Ferry, Loudon, Valley of Virginia; to Fairfax Station, Stafford Court House, and Fredericksburgh, but did not participate in the battle there in the winter of 1862–3, the regiment being attached to the 12th army corps, which was held in reserve during the battle, or rather was so delayed by the deep mud that it did not arrive in time. Marched back to Stafford Court House, and was in camp with the regiment until spring; was present at the battle of Chancellorsville, May 1, 2, and 3, 1863, acting as staff officer, having been detailed as Acting Assistant Inspector General of the 1st Division of the 12th Army Corps of the Army of the Potomac. He was present at the battle of Gettysburgh, Penn., July 1, 2, and 3, 1863. Serving in the same capacity he followed Lee's army in its retreat back to the Rapidan river, where the army remained in camp for several weeks—during which time he was in hospital at Washington, sick with typhoid fever. In September, 1863, two of the army corps, to one of which he belonged, were transferred from the army of the Potomac, in Virginia, to the army of the Cumberland, in Tennessee. They took the cars at Bealton Station, on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad; passed through Washington to Relay House, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, through Pittsburgh and Dayton, to Indianapolis, Indiana; Louisville, Kentucky, and Nashville, Tennessee. They halted at Tullahoma, from whence his division of infantry was ordered in pursuit of Forrest's cavalry. During the winter of 1863–4 the two army corps were guarding the railroad from Nashville to Chattanooga, over which supplies were brought up for use in the campaign; from the last named place to Atlanta, Ga. He was then detailed as Assistant Inspector General of 12th Army Corps, acting in that capacity until March, 1864. He was then promoted Lieutenant Colonel, and rejoined the 20th regiment of Connecticut Volunteers, and from that period had command of the regiment, most of the time, until Sept., 1864. Was present with the regiment in the skirmish at Buzzard's Roost, near Dalton, Georgia; also at the two days battle at Resaca, at the battles of Cassville and of Peach Tree Creek, at the skirmish of Turner's Ferry, and at the six weeks siege and capture of Atlanta. He was in command of a brigade, by seniority, and made the famous "March to the Sea," from Atlanta to Savannah, during which skirmishing occurred, almost daily, for thirty-four days; and subsisted solely on rice and coffee for seven or eight days, with the rest of the army, while in front of Savannah. He was present at the capture of Savannah, and made the march in command of his regiment, from Savannah through South Carolina and North Carolina, to Goldsborough; during which he was present at the battles of Silver Run, Averysborough, and Bentonville, in North Carolina; the capture of Columbia, South Carolina, and at several skirmishes at various places on the march, during the two months time from Savannah to Goldsborough. He was present at the surrender of Johnson's army, forty miles northwest of Raleigh, North Carolina, which was about the closing scene of the war. He made the march in command of his regiment, from Raleigh to Richmond, and thence to Washington; was brevetted Colonel for gallant conduct in the campaign of Georgia and the Carolinas; was ordered from Washington to New Haven with his regiment, where he was mustered out of military service of the United States, on the 27th of June, 1865.

It is due to Col. Buckingham, here to note the fact, that during the entire period of his connection with the army of the Rebellion, he kept an accurate Journal of events, and deserves to be honored as the historian of the 20th Regiment of Connecticut Volunteers. Those who consult The Military and Civil History of Connecticut during the war, by Crofut & Morris, will find many of the most glowing and eloquent descriptions of scenes, in which that regiment acted a prominent part, are transcribed from his manuscripts, and credited to him as their author.

After the close of the war, Col. Buckingham was for a period of three or four months engaged in lecturing and establishing organizations to raise funds for the support of teachers in the conquered territory; his experience having convinced him that this was the second great want of the South.

For the past five years (1871), he has been employed as superintendent and agent of a Chemical Manufacturing Establishment, near New Haven, Conn., in which he has a pecuniary interest, the business of which has fully occupied his time.

Emeline Arvilla Martin, daughter of Abner and Lucy (Buckingham) Martin, born Oct. 14, 1815; married Isaac Taylor, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Taylor died Nov. 12, 1865. Mrs. Emeline A. Taylor died Oct., 1866. They had two daughters who died before them, one at the age of 4, and the other at the age of 15 years. Their residence was at Racine, Wisconsin. The following sketch was published at the decease of Mrs. Taylor, under the head of

THE TAYLOR ORPHAN ASYLUM.

"We are informed that, by the will of the late Mrs. Taylor of this city, provision is made for founding an Orphan Asylum for Racine County, and that the amount left for this purpose is $180,000. The late Isaac Taylor is known to have intended to establish such an institution, but his sudden death did not permit him to carry out his benevolent design. The generous act of Mrs. Taylor will consummate the cherished project of her husband, and their names will hereafter be recorded with those whose memories shall never be forgotten. Mr. Taylor was born in a foreign country, and in boyhood was left homeless and poor. He had known the hardships that those suffer, who struggle, manfully, in the race of life, with none to guide and few to befriend. In England the hand of power and wealth lies heavy upon the poor and friendless. To such, if vicious, the prison, and, if virtuous, the work-house alone are open. There are no free schools, except those provided for the rich and the influential. Poverty there is a curse, which society does little to mitigate, and, nothing to remove. His childhood was uncheered by kindness, and his earlier years were spent amid the poor and unfortunate, whom neglect and ignorance often render indifferent as to the present, and hopeless as to the future. He was fortunate enough to receive aid from a farmer, for whom he had labored, which enabled him to reach a land where the oppressed may find freedom, and the poor may obtain wealth. Here he found all that he needed, an opportunity to labor, and a fair chance in the world. His hands were not idle. Though his employment was humble, at first, it was work; and all work is honorable, if useful. Of the struggles through which he passed, during his early manhood, we know little; we know, however, that he became a kind-hearted, sagacious, business man, and a public spirited and influential citizen.

A man of warm sympathies and large wealth, he was not less intent upon using, than upon obtaining wealth. He never forgot, and used often to speak, of his earlier years, of the poverty, the trials and misfortunes, that beset his childhood, and he determined to do all in his power to render others happier than he himself had been.

To found an institution for the protection, training, and education of poor children, became a cherished project with him, and it was his design to erect the building and carry out his design immediately, when death deprived the community of his services in this noble undertaking. But she to whom he entrusted his wealth and who was in all respects worthy the confidence reposed in her, has done the work that her husband wished to be done, and the monument she has reared to his memory will tell to future ages of her own charities and Christian character. An event so important, as the founding an institution for the education of the poor and friendless, will justify us in glancing at the character of the man, whose forecast provided the means and whose goodness prompted the act.

Mr. Taylor was a man of simple tastes and habits. He was generous and hospitable, but not vain and ostentatious. Affable to all, he neither sought nor avoided the society of the rich, and the influential. He was always careful of the feelings of the poor, and had ever a kind word for the unfortunate. His charities, like his life, were unobtrusive, while he gave liberally to objects of a public kind, he gave more to those who would never herald his kindness. Upon himself and for himself he used little of his wealth, and seemed to be more anxious for the happiness of others than for his own. Neither wealth nor station could change the inbred gentleness and kindness of his heart, or cause him for a moment to forget that the claims of misfortune are always paramount. He possessed a forecast and an energy that well fitted him to succeed in life. As a man of business, he was prompt, reliable, and, in every respect honorable. He cherished the honest pride of always keeping his word, and hence a simple promise to those who knew him was, always, implicitly depended upon and was never broken. His plans were comprehensive and laid with great care. His success in business was not merely good luck; it was the natural and necessary result of attention and energy. He was a citizen, in all respects, above reproach, making no loud profession of virtue, he daily put into practice those principles that are the basis of human goodness, and, when death came, it was met with the calm fortitude that becomes a man who has done his duty.

This noble act of charity, on the part of Mrs. Taylor, must have a beneficial influence upon the rich men of our State. It will commend itself to them and lead them to do something to render mankind happier after their benefactors have passed away.

While the people of the State have founded the benevolent institutions, absolutely required, there is still great need of homes for orphans, for the aged, and the poor. These evidences of an advanced Christian civilization are scarcely found in our Western States, hence it is, in view of the influence of this noble gift in inducing others to emulate the philanthrophy that prompted it, that we wish to bring it prominently before the public. The memory of those who erect monuments of mercy and kindness shall never perish, and their good deeds are embalmed in the gratitude of their race.

Mrs. Taylor's will contains the following munificent bequests for public purposes, besides about an equal amount distributed among relatives and friends :

To Racine College, - - - -	$65,000.
" Nashota Mission, - - -	5,000.
" Orphan Asylum at Cleveland, Ohio, -	6,000.
" Home of the Friendless, " -	1,100.
" Mound Cemetery, " -	3,000.
" Trustees to build Orphan Asylum in Racine,	30,000.
" Endow the Asylum upwards of -	100,000.

The bequest to Racine College is to be appropriated as follows:—$30,000 for the erection of a new building; $30,000 for endowment; and $5,000 for general purposes.

SECOND GENERATION.

MARY BUCKINGHAM, daughter of Thomas Buckingham, baptized March 27, 1643, married John Parker, of Saybrook, Dec. 24, 1666, and had children, John, born Oct. 31, 1667 ; Deborah, Aug. 31, 1671 ; Ebenezer, Aug. 18, 1674 ; Samuel, Jan. 24, 1677. No attempt has been made to trace her descendants any farther.

SECOND GENERATION.

Rev. Thomas Buckingham, youngest child of Thomas Buckingham of Milford, the Puritan settler, and Hannah Buckingham, was, probably, born in the early part of the year 1646. His mother died, according to the church records, June 28, 1646, and he was baptized Nov. 28, the same year. Where he was educated is not certainly known. It is not improbable that he studied with Rev. John Whiting of Hartford. He was married in Hartford, and preached in Wethersfield in the year 1664, when but 18 years of age. An entry appears on the Records of that town stating that the town voted to pay him "20 shillings per week" for a quarter of a year to come, for his help in the ministry. He commenced preaching in Saybrook a little before he was 19, quite early in the year 1665, immediately after the town had settled their difficulties with his predecessor, Rev. Jeremiah Peck, who succeeded Rev. James Fitch on his removal to Norwich. The earliest entries in the first volume of town records are made in 1661. The following entry dates Feb. 19, 1661. "Journey to Guilford for Mr. Peck." Also, May 5, 1662, "providing for Mr. Peck's supply for the year ensuing." "Aug. 20, 1662. Granted to Mr. Peck an hundred pound accommodation, both upland and meadow." The records also show that he bought eight acres of land in the town plot, and built an house thereon, and certain privileges were granted to him, on condition of his remaining five years. It appears that soon after this arrangement, a difficulty arose between him and the town, which finally resulted in his resignation. In "Styles' Itinerary," consisting of three manuscript volumes, in the Archives of Yale College, is the following entry: "Jan 30, 1665. Controversy with Mr. Peck settled. The town confirm and give him full possession of his accommodation." And immediately after we find: "Agreement to Mr. Thomas Buckingham, Feb. 14, 1665. Settlement by Mr. Peck's house, estimated £95 sterling, and give him £60 of it; said Buckingham pay £35. Salary £60 per annum, in provisions; confirmed by the town 5th of March, 1665; and, at same meeting, Lyme separated, having competency of land for 30 families."

According to the first volume of Town Acts of Saybrook, Mr. Buckingham was not ordained and installed pastor of the church until the spring or summer of the year 1670, a little over five years from the time he commenced the regular supply of the pulpit. There were probably two reasons for this: his youth, and the difficulties encountered with Mr. Peck, which led them to give the candidate for settlement a thorough trial.

LANDS OF REV. THOMAS BUCKINGHAM.

The town in 1648, as a matter of convenience, divided the town lands into three sections called "Quarters," of which the Oyster River contained what is now Old Saybrook. West Brook, the villages of Winthrop, Deep River, and Pattaconck, or Chester. The Pantapaug Quarter comprised what is now the village of Centrebrook and the town of Essex. The Black Hall Quarter what is now the town of Lyme. Each of the quarters kept land records additional to those of the town.

The following entries appear in the Oyster River Quarter Records. "March 20, 166$\frac{6}{7}$: The committee grants to Mr. Thomas Buckingham the homake that lyeth at the mouth of Oyster River, upon this condition, that he shall use it, while he remains in the work of the ministry, and so successively to pass from him to the town again, to remain to the town'se dispose (disposal) for the benefit of the next that shall succeed in the work of the ministry at Seabrook, it be consented unto by the committee that what recompense is due to Mr. Buckingham, as charge, he doth expend upon the same homake as shall be judged by two indifferent men, shall be repaid to him at the time when he leaves it to the town, that is to say, so much as he has not had benefit thereby. The great homake is the homake that is intended in this righting."

At a town meeting "Feb. 23, 1670, it was agreed and voted that Mr. Buckingham should have 10 acres of land for a pasture, being between Potapauge Path and the rocks westward and so Northward up the brook, southward on the highway that goeth to the mill from Tilly's Point, the land to be laid out by William Bushnell, William Lord, John Bushnell, and William Bulliar, so to be laid out that no stated highway be damnified." It was also "agreed and voted that Mr. Buckingham should have ten acres of land for a pasture on the east side of Potapaug highway, bounded on the south with the ends of the swamp, westward with the highway, and northward on the common, easterly on the swamp, commonly called the Great Swamp, taking so much of the swamp as may lay his land in a square. This land is in consideration of his laying down his former grant of the same quantity. William Lord and William Bushnell are to measure the land."

At a Quarter Meeting, "Dec. 26, 1687, it was agreed that Mr. Thomas Buckingham is received into Oyster River Quarter, one of the Proprietors, unto the value of 100 pounds accommodation; fifty on account of the town grant to him, and the other fifty sold from the Quarter."

"Feb. 6, 1687. The lands lying on both sides of the fishing brook branch running into the Great Boggs, being an hundred and fifty-nine acres, the length north-west and by north 212 rods, on both sides. The breadth north-east and by east, and south-west and by west, 120 rods on both ends is, by mutual consent, granted to Mr. Thomas Buckingham and John Chapman, Esq., for each of them a hundred pound right of their first and second division."

At a Quarter Meeting, "March 2, 170¾, then laid out to the Rev. Mr. Thomas Buckingham, a piece of land at the Mine Plain, by or near the Deep River, or on both sides of the Deep River. It is bounded north upon Joseph Pratt's land, late of Saybrook, deceased. The north-west corner is a bunch of small maple trees, which trees are the north-east corner of the land of Joseph Pratt, deceased, and the east corner is a great maple tree with the tope broke of, standing on the east side of a small run of water, that runs into the Deep River. The south-east corner is a white oak, with stones laid about the root of it, which tree stands on the south side of a swamp, which the carts go over to fetch mine (probably iron ore). The south-west corner is a tree blown up by the roots, which stands by the south side of a brook. This land is in length north and south 80 rods, and width east and west 64 rods, so that in this division there is 32 acres of land, and is laid out to an 100 pounds right.

3d division of land by us measured for Oyster River Quarter.*

EXTRACTS FROM THE FIRST VOLUME OF TOWN ACTS.

The following are some of the entries in relation to Mr. Buckingham, and they show the disposition of the people in those early times, and days of comparative poverty, to make careful provision for the support of their spiritual guides.

* The Probate Records of Windham also show that he was a large landholder in Lebanon, of lands which he probably received as a legatee of Attawanhood, son of Joshua Uncas.

"Feb. 3, 1667, Richard Tousley and William Lord were chosen to gather Mr. Buckingham's rate."

"Feb., 1668. Goodman Bement and Mr. Nicholas are chosen for the gathering of Mr. Buckingham's rate for the year ensuing." Similar entries occur yearly.

"Dec. 24th, 1669. At the same meeting it was discovered and agreed by a joint consent from man to man that the town would unanimously concur in the calling and settling of Mr. Buckingham, in the office of a Pastor to the Church of Saybrook, and do engage to pay the charge, according to the commendable custom of a rate as other charges are carried on."

"March 16, 1670. It was agreed and voted that every hundred pound estate shall yearly, and till the town see cause to alter, carry in to Mr. Buckingham a load of good wood, and all men who are under the estate of an hundred, to cut or join in carting according to their estate and the proportion of an hundred pound estate, a load of wood as aforesaid, in order to his work, there shall be a rate made to direct men to their proportions." At the time of this act the estates of the proprietors amounted to £5,500, which would secure to the minister 55 loads or cords per annum.

"Feb. 23, 1670. At a town meeting Mr. Wastall and William Pratt, Senior, did freely offer five pounds towards the charge of Mr. Buckingham—his ordination. Mr. Robert Chapman doth engage to the charge abovesaid two pounds, ten shillings; John Pratt and John Clark do engage to the charge abovesaid ten shillings; Robert Bate doth engage, Goodman Toosland doth engage five shillings to the charge above mentioned."

At a town meeting Jan. 4, 1674, we find a second entry in regard to the minister's wood. "It was agreed and voted that the town will for the future, in reference to Mr. Buckingham's supply of wood, one day in each year, at the appointment of the townsmen, employ themselves in cutting and carting of the wood to the house of Mr. Buckingham, and every of the inhabitants and traine souldiers shall be injoinable to such work, provided that those that send carts shall only send one sufficient hand with the team, and the rest of the family freed, and the townsmen shall give a week's warning and to see that this affair be managed with the best prudence in suiting carts answerable to that cut."

No small difficulty was doubtless experienced in carrying out this order, for we find another act about four years later, in relation to the matter, as follows:

"Dec, 3, 1678. At the same meeting the town did agree and voat to add to Mr. Buckingham's maintenance ten pounds, in order to the supplying him with wood at 3 shillings a load to one hundred pound estate. to be paid at or before the last of December yearly."

An increase of salary was again voted in 1681.

"April 11, 1681. It was voted and agreed that there should be added to Mr. Buckingham's rate of maintenance ten pounds, beginning in the year 1681, and so forward."

The records also show that frequent grants of land were made to him as his family and expenses increased, so that he finally became before his decease, quite a landholder. As his salary was paid mostly in produce, we find frequent acts were passed regulating the price of articles of provision in which he was paid. A single specimen will suffice.

"At a town meeting orderly warned, Dec. 28, 1697, it was agreed and voted that respecting Mr. Buckingham's rate, the inhabitance of the town shall pay his rate for the future as usuall, for good and merchantable winter wheat, 3 shillings a bushel, rye at 3 shillings a bushel, Indian corn 2 shillings and sixpence per bushel, pork at 3 pence per pound, beef at 2 pence, that being the esteemed current price in the commencement with Mr. Buckingham."

To show the estimation in which he was held by his townsmen, he was often appointed on committees in business of difficulty and importance as being a judicious and wise counsellor, although pastor of the church.* For example, Mr. Richard Ely, one of the heirs of Col. Fenwick, had difficulties with the proprietors for a series of years, in regard to keeping the fences in repair between his land and other proprietors. It seemed to be a standing topic for discussion in town meeting for several years. The following is extracted from the records of a town meeting held Dec., 1671. At a town meeting it was agreed that Mr. Ely should have liberty to debate with Mr. Buckingham and Mr. Chapman, who are appointed a committee to hear and give light to the town, if any appears, concerning the legality or illegality of the fence, imposed on Mr. Fenwick's legatees, still to be understood that the order of the townsmen, unless there appears the righteousness of the contrary, which thing is to be referred to a further debate in the town. The time set by the town for Mr. Ely is within 14 days."

*An autograph letter from him to the General Assembly in regard to the encroachments of Andross, may be seen in the State Archives at Hartford, dated 5 : 6. 75. Signed,

THOMAS BUCKINGHAM.

He was one of the legatees of Attawanhood named in his will with Robert Chapman and William Pratt. (Vide Appendix Note, D.)

He was one of the founders and fellows of Yale College from 1700 to his decease, and a strong supporter of its interests. He evidently held a high rank among the clergymen of the time, and was one of the leaders in all efforts for the prosperity and extension of the church, and was one of the moderators of that famous synod which convened at Saybrook and formed the platform for the government of the churches in 1708.

Mr. Buckingham was twice married. (1), to Hester Hosmer, daughter of Thomas Hosmer of Hartford, Sept. 20, 1666, in the 21st year of his age, by whom he had nine children. Mrs. Hester Buckingham died June 3, 1702. (2), to Mary Hooker, widow of Samuel Hooker of Farmington, son of Rev. Thomas Hooker of Hartford, and eldest daughter of Capt. Thomas Willet of Swanzey, Mass, Aug. 10, 1703.

He died April 1st, 1709. For an abstract of his will see Appendix, Note E. His monument is still standing in the Old Burying-ground of Saybrook, bearing this inscription:

"Here lies the body of the
REV. MR. THOMAS BUCKINGHAM,
Pastor of the Church of Christ in Saybrook, dec'd
April ye 1st, 1709, in ye
63 year of his age."

The following is a copy of the inscription on the tomb of Mrs. Hester Buckingham:

Samuel Hooker of Farmington, and grand-daughter of Rev. Thomas Hooker of Hartford. It appears from the records of the town of Norwalk, that he was called there to preach in the early part of the year 1695. The following acts of the town were passed in relation to his settlement, and means of support:

"At a Towne Meeting, held in Norwalk, 2 of April, 1695 ; at sayed meeting, it was voted and agreed, and by the town declared as their mind, that the committee formerly chosen for to act for the town for the obtaining a minister, have hereby full and free liberty from the towne for to move to whom or whear they shall see cause, for the obtaining of the end premized ; without any restraint or limitation to any person or persons ; this to stand full and good, notwithstanding any former act of the town contrary to this present order, vote, and declaration of the mind of the town."

† Appendix, Note H.

PURCHASING A MINISTER'S LOT.

"May 23, 1695. Voted and agreed by the town, that that lott obtained of Joseph Gregory, shall be for the accommodating of a Gospell minister for the towne; and that it is also agreed by the town, that at such time as God shall please to bring in unto us such a minister, then and at that day that he shall be called to office and ordayned pastor of the church in Norwalk, then the aforesayed lott shall be and remaine to him and his heirs forever."*

"At a towne meeting held July the 2d, 1695; at sayed meeting it was voted and agreed upon by the towne that the land, pasture, and swamp, lying in the general field, granted to the ministry, shall be cleared and fenced and made for improvement for pasture and meadow."

Also at the same meeting it was voted and allso granted by the town unto the minister, to him and his heirs, a parcell of Salt Marsh Meadow lying in the bounds of Norwalk, and that over the river the west side of the town, &c.; the sayd parcell of meadow the town engaged for to fence and make capable of improvement, &c.

Also; at the same meeting the town by vote hath given and granted to the minister ten acres of land for plowing, and that in the township of Norwalk on the east side of the brook, and on the north-east part of Matthew Marvin's boggy meadows, to be to him and his heirs forever.

THE MINISTER'S FIREWOOD.

At a towne meeting, July 17, 1695, it was voted and agreed by the towne for to allow and freely give Mr. Buckingham his firewood annually and at all times, so long as he shall continue to carry on the work of the ministry in Norwalk.

MINISTER'S SALARY.

Also at the above meeting (July 17, 1695) it was voted and agreed by the town for to allow and pay 80*l.* per yeer, after the two first yeers abiding with us, unto Mr. Steven Buckingham, respecting his carrying on the work of the ministry. The said 80*l.* to be annually paid by the town by way of proportion, extraordinary cases only excepted.

* This was the lot between Capt. Daniel Hanford's and the residence of the late Hanford Fitch. It was occupied by Rev. Stephen Buckingham. The Railroad now crosses it.

THE MINISTER'S HOUSE.

Dec. 18, 1695. At the Sayd Meeting, the Towne did manifest and by vote did agree that they would build a house for the minister with as much speed as might be with conveniency; and the dimensions of sayd house are as followeth: two and fourty foot in length, and two and twenty foot in breadth and two story high, or two lofts, and double chimneys, and a comely porch to sayde house; a seller under one end of the sayd house, and stone the sayd seller; the sayed house is also to have a comely gett at each end of the same, and all to be decently finished upown the towne's cost."

THE MINISTER'S SALARY.*

"At a town meeting held in Norwalk October the 8th, 1697. At the sayed meeting it was voted and agreed by the towne, that the eighty pounds sallary granted to Mr. Buckingham, the towne doth agree to pay it as followeth, both for specie and price, vizt: winter wheat at five shillings per bushell; Indian corn at two shillings and six pence per bushel; rye at four shillings per bushel; porke at three pence farthing per pound; biefe at two pence per pound; all good and merchantable, and none of the inhabitants to pay above one-third part of their rate or proportion in Rye."

"Allso, at the same meeting, the towne by their vote did manifest their desire that the Rev. Mr. Steven Buckingham should be ordayned pastor of the church in Norwalk before winter; in case the sayd Mr. Buckingham will please to give the towne a dispensation so long as till the last of May next insueing, for the compleating and finishing the house, and also till the next Michaelmast for the fencing and clearing of the land engaged by the town to be fenced and cleared for improvement."

CONCURRENCE OF THE TOWN WITH THE CHURCH IN SETTLING THE MINISTER.

"Also at the same meeting the towne made choyse of Matthew Marvin and James Olmstead for to signifie unto the Revd. Elders, at the time of Ordination, the desire and good agreement of the towne with the church in the ordayning of the Revd. Mr. Steven Buckingham."

The ordination of Mr. Buckingham took place Nov. 17, 1697.

ALLOWANCE TO MR. BUCKINGHAM INSTEAD OF HIS YEARLY FIREWOOD.

"Feb. 28, 170$\frac{6}{7}$. Voted and agreed by the towne to allow Mr. Steven Buckingham twenty pounds per year to be paid in specie, as his rate to be paid in, he freeing the towne from the obligation they are under in finding or providing his firewood."

MR. BUCKINGHAM'S AGREEMENT THERETO.

"The town of Norwalk, performing their above mentioned agreement as to summ and price, are now freed from the obligation concerning firewood to me,"

S. BUCKINGHAM.

After Mr. Buckingham had served the church of Norwalk about 30 years from the time he commenced preaching there, difficulties arose between him and the town which led to a long course of litigation that ended in his resignation, Feb. 4th, 1727. He continued to reside at Norwalk until his death, which transpired Feb. 13, 1746, aged 70.

He was a member of the corporation of Yale College from 1716 to 1732. He left no children, but is supposed to have adopted his nephew, Steven Buckingham, son of his brother Daniel Buckingham, who married and settled in life at Norwalk. His will, dated Jan. 21, 1646, in which his wife Sarah is made executor, gives all his property of which he was then in possession to his widow. Mrs. Sarah Buckingham is reputed to have been the most accomplished lady that ever came to Norwalk. This saying has been transmitted from generation to generation to the present time. Her will, in which she bequeaths all her property to her kinsman Josiah Hooker, bears date May 23, 1751, and was recorded March 26, 1759.

Hezekiah Buckingham, son of Rev. Thomas and Hester (Hosmer) Buckingham, born June 21, 1682 ; married Sarah Lay, Dec. 15, 1703. He appears frequently on the town records of Saybrook as appointed to important offices of trust. He died probably in the early part of the year 1752, aged about 70. His youngest son appears April 11, 1752, as executor of his estate, in the Court of Probate at Guilford.

1277.

Stephen Buckingham, son of Daniel and Sarah (Lee) Buckingham, born August 4th, 1703; is recorded on the town records of Norwalk as having married Elisabeth Sherwood of Fairfield, Feb. 24, 172$\frac{8}{9}$. She was born in 1708. A foot note says he was the son of Daniel Buckingham of Saybrook. As his uncle Stephen was pastor of the church of Norwalk many years and had no children, it is probable that he adopted him, or that, at any rate he lived with his uncle and settled in life at Norwalk. He deeds to his brother Daniel of Saybrook a certain piece of land, and in said deeds calls himself "husbandman." He removed to Chesterfield, East Jersey, according to a deed dated at Saybrook, June 5, 1754. Mrs. Elisabeth Buckingham died in 1792 of "shaking palsy," aged 84.

The date of Mr. Stephen Buckingham's decease has not been ascertained.

Ebenezer Buckingham, son of Stephen and Elisabeth (Sherwood) Buckingham, born Nov. 1, 1748; married Esther Bradley of Greenfield, Ct., Oct. 23, 1771, where she renewed covenant Feb. 7, 1773. At an early day (supposed about 1774), they removed to a place in the south-east part of the State of New York, West of the Hudson River, called "Nine Partners." After a short stay there they removed to Ballstown, N. Y.; then again June, 1794, to Cooperstown. Here they tarried until Jan., 1800, when they left on two sleds, drawn by one yoke of oxen each, having with them all their children except Rachel and Sarah, who being married remained in the State of New York. A Mr. Spencer and wife accompanied them on another sled across the mountains to Pittsburgh, Penn., by the way of Cove Gap, where they waited six weeks for the ice in the Ohio River to break up, when the cattle were sent by land through what was then a wilderness, under care of Stephen, his son, to Middle Island, just above Marietta, and the others of the family, with their goods and effects, descended in a flat boat. Arriving in the spring, they shortly afterwards, with other families, ascended the Muskingum river, and located at the mouth of Killbrick creek, at the confluence of the two streams, forming the first settlement in that region. This was about two miles above the present town of Coshocton. The nearest white settlement was thirty miles down the river, at Marietta, southward, and Detroit far to the North. During a residence of two years the suffering from sickness was excessive, so great as induced them at last to remove to the mouth of the Hockhocking, on the Ohio, in the spring of 1802. Here they raised a crop of corn, and afterwards settled in Carthage, Athens County, Ohio. Here Ebenezer Buckingham resided until his death, Oct. 24, 1824, having raised a family of twelve children, at the age of 76. He left his farm and property to his son Milton, with whom he had spent the evening of his days. His widow, Mrs. Esther Buckingham, spent her last days with her son Ebenezer, at Putnam, Muskingum County, where she died June 25, 1827, aged 72 years, and lies interred in the lot of her son Alvah in Woodland Cemetery, near Putnam, Ohio. (The foregoing account furnished by their grandson, James Buckingham, Zanesville, Ohio.)

Deacon Samuel Buckingham, son of Samuel and Lydia (Watrous) Buckingham, born at Saybrook, Jan. 11, 1770, where he lived until after his marriage and the birth of his eldest child. He married Joanna Matson of Lyme, March 8, 1798, by whom he had six children. He removed to Lebanon in 1803, which town he represented in the Legislature in 1815. He was for many years deacon of the Congregational Church, and died April 19, 1850, aged 80.

He used to say that in selecting his farm, he not only wanted a good farm, but also wished to be "near the church, the school, the physician, and the mill." It was located near "the brick meeting-house," on the turnpike from Norwich to Hartford, eleven miles from the former, where was to be found a market for all farm products, and in a community quite distinguished, in those days, for religious and educational privileges, and for its good society, being the residence of the Trumbull's, William's, Mason's, &c. He was an enterprising and thrifty farmer, and not only lived comfortably and made his home the home of hospitality, but acquired a handsome property for those times.

He had one source of income, however, besides his farm. For, when a young man, and before he left Saybrook, he and two or three others, built the first two fishing piers at the mouth of the Connecticut to take shad, and he retained his interest in these fisheries, which was worth as much to him as his farm. He was fond of the cultivation of fruit, and before nurseries and grafted fruit were common, raised it in abundance and of the choicest varieties. His buildings were always kept in the best of repairs, and painted as white as fresh paint could make them, so that his well shaded and pleasant residence became a striking feature in the landscape and gave a good idea of what the best New England homes were.

"The Academy" of this town, as it was called, though it had no endowment, was somewhat distinguished under "Master Tisdale," and some of the leading men of the State were educated here. Here a select school was maintained, generally under some college graduate, for both sexes; but sometimes it was made a school for young ladies, under superior instruction. In arranging and maintaining these schools, Deacon Buckingham was always active and liberal, and here his own children were educated until they needed better advantages, when they were all sent away to enjoy them. The church also, in which he was for many years a deacon, and of which he was such a revered and beloved member, found in him one of its best friends. To secure a good minister when one was needed; to provide well for his support; to build a parsonage; and then make his residence in it comfortable and pleasant—in everything of this kind he naturally expected to take a leading part, while his life and prayers gave new power to preaching and all the means of grace. He had a peculiar regard for ministers; prized their society, loved to entertain them, so that his house was familiarly called "The Ministers' Tavern." He loved good people and good things, and any good cause was likely to find in him a prime supporter and true friend. When the temperance reform commenced, he was one of the first to adopt its principles and carry them out in the management of his farm. Though told that he never could have laborers without furnishing them with ardent spirits in haying time at least, he refused to believe it, and banished them at once from his farm and from his house. He was too conscientious and benevolent to maintain a custom so dangerous to individuals and so injurious to the community, when he could see such an easy protection against it. In any analysis of his character it might be said that his most striking characteristic was his rare good judgment. He would not pretend to judge of subjects with which he had little or no knowledge; but upon matters with which he was acquainted, his opinions were definite and almost infallible. He was a christian gentleman, whose fine social nature made him exceedingly fond of his home and his family, and always most happy to entertain friends. His habits of business were careful and exact, while his industry and thoroughness, combined with his rare judgment, were quite sure to render his business plans successful. His reverence was great; reverence for public men of ability and integrity; while his love for good men, and those especially whom he deemed the Lord's servants, was greater still. He was tender-hearted and full of sympathy with the children of misfortune, as well as rigid in his ideas of personal duty, and holding himself bound by the strictest requirements of his Lord, and never very confident that he had met them fully. His hope of final acceptance was all in the mercy of God through Jesus Christ, and trusting these, he approached the end of life serenely, and after a long and painful sickness from the dropsy, died in the faith and patience of the gospel at the age of eighty, not more remarkable for his years than for his usefulness and piety.

The family of his wife, Mrs. Joanna (Matson) Buckingham, was one of the valuable ones which the town of Lyme has produced. Deacon Nathanael Matson, so long a venerable officer in the old church, being her eldest brother, and her eldest sister being the mother of Judge Henry M. Waite, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State. The first of the name was Nathanael Matson, a shipmaster, who settled in Boston. His son Nathanael removed to Lyme, where he engaged in farming and in mercantile pursuits, and where he died Feb. 3, 1776, aged 92, having had a family of nine children. His son Nathanael, the father of Mrs. Buckingham, was born in 1725; married Dinah Newton of Colchester, Jan. 15, 1761, and died August 21, 1787, having had seven children, Joanna being the youngest.

She was a superior woman, of unaffected modesty, and great executive ability, and possessed of such good judgment, that her husband always consulted her in business matters, and said after her death that he never succeeded well in any enterprise of which she did not thoroughly approve. She was quick in her mental operations and fertile in expedients when any important object was to be accomplished, and especially when advising others and planning for their good, very tender hearted and sympathetic, yet resolute in an emergency and capable of enduring the severest trial and the most protracted exertions; with a heart as warm and motherly as ever blessed any home; and with a piety so reverential, conscientious, and affectionate, as to make all respect and love her, and leave her memory as sacredly enshrined in the hearts of her children as The Madonna's is among all good Catholics. She used to plan wisely and comprehensively for her children, and was anxious that they should be something and do something in the world, but her ambition was held in subordination to her piety, and she would always add to her encouragements and hopes:—"Well, whatever else you are, I want you to be christians."

Perhaps no better summary of her character or fitter tribute to her memory can be given, than was heard from her pastor years after her death, when this minister had removed to another town, where, in his age and infirmity he occasionally occupied the pulpit. A friend of the family happening to pass a Sabbath there, was gratified to hear this reference to her as an illustration of his subject:

"When I became pastor of the church, to which for many years I ministered, I was struck wherever I went with the love and gratitude which all poured out at the mention of one individual. That individual was the mother of our now good Governor—a noble son of a noble mother. Beneath every roof her name was most affectionately mentioned, as her memory now is sacredly cherished. I wondered how she had thus endeared herself to the hearts of that people. But when I saw her at the bedside of the sick and dying, ministering, like an angel from above, to their relief,—when I saw her gifts scattered wherever they were needed,—when I saw how little she spent upon herself and how cheerfully she gave to others, I understood the secret. Others besides our Maker love such a spirit, and weep when it is withdrawn from the scenes of earth." Their six children all lived to adult age except the fourth, who died when a year and a half old.

CHILDREN OF DEACON SAMUEL AND JOANNA (MATSON) BUCKINGHAM.

1780. Abigail, born March 26, 1801; died unmarried at Norwich, June 27, 1861, aged 60. "She was so feeble in her childhood that no one ever supposed she would live to grow up; though she was always as frail as frailty itself, through the judicious and tender care of the family she lived to be sixty years of age, and had a large circle of friends, and exerted an influence and accomplished a work, which under such disadvantages, were quite remarkable. She was acknowledged to have the finest mind in the family, being fond of mathematics, and loving to solve difficult problems as an amusement, fond of books, a good critic, besides being a good writer herself, while in matters of taste and ingenuity there was nothing too delicate for her to devise or too dainty for her skillful fingers to execute. Considering the little physical vigor she possessed she was capable of great exertion, and could endure the utmost fatigue as if her spirit was wholly independent of the body, and could supply that with any amount of strength at its will. She was a good example of what one incapable of doing much for herself or for others physically could do for them intellectually and spiritually, filling as she did such a large place in her father's family, and sending her influence so far and so sweetly beyond it. And this influence was as christian as it was intellectual and social. Her moulding power in this respect over her brothers, was second only to that of their parents over them all. She was much interested in Antiquarian Researches, and knew more about the genealogy of the family, especially this branch of it, than any one else at the time of her death, and would have welcomed the publication of this work with peculiar satisfaction. In that sphere where saintly spirits are freed from all physical infirmities and they have realized "the redemption of the body," as well as the spirit, we love to think of such souls as standing among the brightest seraphs, and going forth with them on their swift ministries of love.

1791. William Alfred, " May 25, 1804; m. Eliza Ripley.

1792. Lucy Ann, " Oct. 25, 1806; died Sept., 1833. "She partook largely of her mother's characteristics, and sought to walk closely in her steps as a friend to the sick and suffering; and by such self-forgetful devotion to others, and to the members of her own family, she broke down a naturally fine constitution, and died somewhat prematurely, soon after her father. Nothing could ever induce her to leave her home where she thought she was so much needed, and where she cherished her sister so lovingly, and nursed her father so tenderly, after her mother's death. Fitted to grace almost any position, she was content to remain where love and duty kept her, though her duties were humble and her life uneventful. Still where such grace as humility, and charity, and fidelity are duly prized, she has doubtless found fit promotion."

Ebenezer Buckingham, son of Ebenezer and Esther (Bradley) Buckingham, was born Feb. 9, 1778, near Ballstown, New York. His parents were poor, and his opportunities for acquiring knowledge were very limited. He managed, however, to obtain a tolerably good common education, and considerable knowledge of surveying. As soon as he was old enough to judge for himself he, in common with many others at that time, turned his attention to the inducements held out to young men to seek their fortunes in the far west. His father and family had in the meantime removed to Cooperstown, and while residing there, the young man became so impatient of the routine of home labor that, at the age of nineteen, he paid his father two hundred dollars for a release from service during the remaining two years of his minority, and with all his worldly goods in a small bundle slung over his shoulder, he struck for the West across the Alleghany Mountains on foot, paying his way in many cases by doing odd jobs for people who supplied his wants.

On his arrival at Marietta, then the principal and almost the only settlement in Ohio, he applied to Gen. Rufus Putnam, Surveyor General of the north-western Territory, for employment in surveying the public lands. At this time an incident occurred which illustrates the energy and possibly the shrewdness of the young man. The General being engaged, our friend was obliged to wait about an hour before seeing him. While walking around the door-yard he noticed a large pile of wood, none of which had been cut and prepared for the fire. He seized an axe lying near it, and by the time the General had come out to talk with him, he found enough wood cut and split to render his kitchen department quite happy.

Whether the General was prepossessed by this circumstance or not, they soon came to an understanding, and our friend entered upon his new duties with such energy and skill that he quite won the heart of his employer, who admitted him to his family circle, and ultimately gave him his daughter in marriage.

In the meantime young Mr. Buckingham established a trading post at Coshocton, where the Tuscarawa and Walhonding rivers unite to form the Muskingum.

While there, a party of Indians stole some of his horses, and ran them off towards Lake Erie. He immediately pursued them alone through the unbroken wilderness to Sandusky, where, by the assistance of a friendly chief, he succeeded in recovering his horses. He returned in triumph, riding on a bark saddle, and without a hat, and was warmly welcomed by his friends, who had thought he was lost.

Soon after settling in Springfield, Mr. Buckingham began to exercise an important influence in the community, and by his sound judgment and excellent business habits, did much to promote public improvements, both in his neighborhood and in the State. He represented his district several times in the State Legislature, and was one of the first and most influential in promoting the enterprise of building the Ohio Canal. As soon as the matter was decided he was appointed one of the commissioners of the "Canal Fund," which office he held at the time of his death. Among the results of his public spirit and sound judgment, are the bridges which span the Muskingum and Pataskala rivers at Zanesville.

At the building of one of these he unfortunately lost his life, by the giving way, during a flood, of the temporary supports upon which it rested during its construction.

In religious matters as in everything else, Mr. Buckingham occupied no doubtful position. He early became a member of the Presbyterian Church, and exerted a decided Christian influence on all occasions when such influence was required.

His sound principles of business, stern adherence to the right, and honesty above suspicion, gained for him the confidence of the public, while his kind heart and generous hand won for him the love of his personal and intimate acquaintance.

In person he was commanding, being six feet in height, and weighing two hundred pounds; his dark hazel eye was clear and searching, his massive head usually required a hat made especially for it.

Many of the results of his efforts during the early years of Ohio, will remain long after his name shall have passed from the memory of its inhabitants. (Communicated by the family.)

Mr. Buckingham was thrice married. (1), to Catharine Putnam, daughter of General Rufus Putnam, Nov. 27, 1805, by whom he had one child. She died March 14, 1808, and was interred at Putnam. (2), to Sarah Sturges, March 30, 1812, by whom he had two children. She was born Dec. 14, 1786, and died April 9, 1815. (3), to Eunice Hale, daughter of Benjamin Hale of Glastonbury, Ct., Aug. 5, 1816, by whom he had seven children. She was born October 22 1792, and died at Putnam, Ohio, Feb. 28, 1843.

Sarah Buckingham, daughter of Ebenezer and Esther (Bradley) Buckingham, born Feb. 4, 1780; was married to Benjamin Sprague, in Otsego County, New York, Dec. 25, 1799. He was born April 3, 1778. She spent the first twelve years of her life with her grand-mother, Elisabeth Buckingham. After her marriage she lived in Cooperstown until Aug. 1802, when they moved to the Far West, as Buffalo was then called. From there they went up the lake by land very near where the road runs as far as North East, through an entire wilderness. There being no house in which to lodge, they slept in the wood, having only one child. They lived here three years, until the land was surveyed, when they came back to the town of Pomfret. They were at her father's, in Athens Co., Ohio, in 1807, and at Putnam in 1809, but returned to the State of New York before Joseph, their fifth child, was born, and spent their remaining days in Chetauque County. She died from a stroke of palsy, having been sick but seven days, May 21, 1852, aged 72 years. He died of pleurisy, Jan. 3, 1858, aged 79 years. The obituary notice reads :— "Died in this town Mr. Benjamin Sprague, in the 80th year of his age. Mr. Sprague was one of the earliest settlers of this county having emigrated from Cooperstown, Otsego County, to what is now the town of Sheridan, about the year 1805, and bought a tract of 200 acres of land there. After residing a number of years on his original purchase he removed to this town, and occupied different places until he finally, in 1827, settled on the place where he died. He was a carpenter and joiner, and also cultivated a farm. He was an industrious, upright man, and a useful member of society.

Milton Buckingham, son of Ebenezer and Esther (Bradley) Buckingham, born at Ballston Spa, New York, Oct. 23, 1786. Went with his parents to Ohio in 1800, whom he followed in their wanderings to Carthage, Athens County, where he lived until 1832. With him his father lived until his death, in October, 1824, leaving him his farm. In the fall of 1832 or soon after, he went with his family to Putnam, Ohio, where he resided several years, when he moved to Springfield with his three youngest children. While living in Putnam he engaged in merchandizing, in company with his brother Alvah and son Walter, Solomon Sturges and Hezekiah Sturges, under the name of A. Buckingham & Co. At Springfield he engaged in merhandizing with a Mr. Hatch, about one year, and then with his sons John and Milton for several years, and died there. He was nearly all his life an exemplary christian and member of the Methodist Church, and frequently a class leader among them. He possessed, in a peculiar degree, the milk of human kindness, and was ever ready to forgive injuries. He died universally beloved and lamented, expressing with joy his delight in going to dwell with his Redeemer. He married Belinda Cooley, Jan. 1, 1812. She was born June 2, 1792, and was living in 1868.

Alvah Buckingham, son of Ebenezer and Esther (Bradley) Buckingham, was born at Ballston Springs, New York, March 20, 1791. In 1794, his parents removed to Cooperstown, New York. In 1797 his elder brothers, Stephen and Ebenezer, left home to see the wilds west of the Alleghany Mountains and Ohio River. In the fall of 1799 they returned with such glowing accounts of this new land that their parents, with their numerous children, except two married daughters, left Cooperstown for the Western Wilderness. (For a more detailed account, see the statements furnished by Mr. James Buckingham under head number 1337.) They located at first at a point between the White Woman and Tuscarawas, two streams forming the Muskingum River, near their confluence. This was almost the first settlement made in that region, and was about two miles above the present town of Coshocton. The nearest white settlement was Zanesville, some thirty miles south, on the Muskingum River.

While the elder members of the family traded with the Indians for furs, robes, &c., the younger ones joined in their sports and learned their strange language. And this was never entirely forgotten, as fifty years later counting in the Indian tongue was a source of great entertainment to a delighted circle of little auditors. Their amusements were "throwing the tomahawk," "shooting with bow and arrow," "tossing up wood chips for old Indians to fire at," in which they were very expert, and other athletic sports. In the spring of 1802, finding this location unhealthy, the family removed to Carthage township, in the south-eastern part of Athens County, Ohio, on the Hockhocking River. Here, the subject of this article, Alvah Buckingham, had the inestimable privilege of attending school. Though it was four miles distant from his home to the school-house, he walked thereto daily. Out of school, he assisted on the farm or indulged in hunting. This latter was his favorite pastime, as at that early date game was plenty. The woods were infested with the bear, deer, panther, raccoon, opossum, and wild turkey. Near the farm was quite a celebrated deer lick, where, on moonlight nights, he was accustomed to station his watch, and many a victim rewarded his unerring rifle. It was in one of these lonely watches that his quickness of thought and rapidity of action saved his life, and brought down a huge panther, poised just above him, and ready for the spring.

Thus at the age of seventeen he met with a severe accident. Hunting in the woods one day, his horse became frightened, reared and fell back on his rider. Stunned by the fall, he yet recovered to find his right leg broken both above and below the knee, himself distant from the nearest house, which was his own home, over three miles away, and no aid for his rescue but his own mother wit. With a courageous spirit, and by dint of crawling on his two hands and one knee, he reached the river, which fortunately was low enough to enable him to cross, holding his mouth just above water, and thus reach home just as his sinking strength gave way. The limb was splintered as best could be in a country home, but a long weary year's confinement was the result and, ever after, a slight lameness.

In 1804 the older brother, Ebenezer Buckingham, moved to Putnam, (formerly called Saint's Rest), opposite Zanesville, Ohio, and to assist him in business, Alvah followed in 1812, leaving his parents still at the Hocking farm. In 1813, Stephen, an older brother died, and Alvah was called upon to take charge of his business, which he did for two years. In April, 1816, Solomon Sturges and himself having married sisters—the Misses Hale of Glastonbury, Conn.,—formed a mercantile partnership, one-fourth each, with their older brother Ebenezer Buckingham, under the firm name of E. Buckingham & Co., a firm widely known in their then pioneer life. Ebenezer married Eunice Hale of Glastonbury, Conn., and returning to the West brought the two sisters-in-law, Anna and Lucy Hale, the whole party crossing the Alleghany Mountains on horseback, as at that time there were no roads for carriages or wagons. In 1818, Anna Hale returned to her Eastern home, but as it proved for only a time. As leader of the village church choir she sat in her accustomed place, on the last Sunday of September, 1819, in the old church at Glastonbury. Glancing below, her eye met the well-known figure of her western friend. An interview—a hurried proposal and a hurried marriage on the following Sabbath evening—left our young couple free to start on their homeward westward route, and on horseback again, as in her previous trip, the wife of Alvah Buckingham was escorted to her pioneer home. Returning to Putnam, they purchased on the banks of the Muskingum River a very modest homestead of one room; and there, in 1820, set up their household gods. In 1821 they built two story brick house, to which they subsequently added, in 1834, a more commodious addition. This was and is the old homestead in which all their children were born and now, in 1871, occupied by their youngest son, James Buckingham.

In October, 1824, Ebenezer Buckingham, Sr., the father of Alvah, died, at the old farm-house in Carthage, Athens Co., and his wife Esther then removed to the home of her son Ebenezer, Jr., in Putnam, where she died June 25, 1827. In Aug., 1832, the firm of E. Buckingham Jr. & Co., was dissolved by the sudden and painful death of Ebenezer Buckingham; but the business was continued under the new firm name of "A. Buckingham & Co.," and the following year another brother, Milton, was induced to give up the old farm at Carthage and join the firm, taking one-half of Alvah's share; while at the same time Solomon Sturges, Alvah's partner, persuaded his brother Hezekiah to remove from Fairfield, Connecticut, and share in his share.

At this time there was a great need felt of good schools, and in 1835 a charter for a seminary was secured to be called the Putnam Classical Institute, to be located at Putnam. Mrs. Eunice Hale Buckingham, wife of Ebenezer, Alvah Buckingham, Solomon Sturges, Julius C. Guthrie, and Austin A. Guthrie, furnished the funds, and the seminary was established which, through all its vicissi-tudes of time, still continues worthy of patronage.

In 1843 Milton Buckingham removed to Springfield, Ohio, and Alvah could thus admit his oldest son Benjamin, to a partnership. In 1845 the firm name of A. Buckingham & Co. was dissolved, and a new firm name, Buckingham & Sturges, established, composed of Benjamin H. Buckingham and William Sturges, the two oldest sons of the two former partners. In 1850, R. P. Burlingame, a friend, was sent up to Chicago, Ill., to open up a lumber trade there, the funds being furnished by Alvah Buckingham. The next year the two built the first grain elevator in the city of Chicago. It was built of wood, holding some 75,000 bushels of grain, at that time a great wonder. It was called the Fulton Elevator. In 1851 Alvah Buckingham established branch houses in New York City and Toledo, Ohio, for his two oldest sons Benjamin and Philo, buying the Pendleton Elevator, the first one built in Toledo. They soon built a second elevator, and here in the press and excitement of a too extended business, Philo, the second son, lost his health and died quite suddenly, April 6, 1853, in the homestead at Putnam.

In 1854 Alvah Buckingham sold a third interest in his Chicago Fulton Elevator to his old partner Solomon Sturges, and shortly after they concluded a contract with the Illinois Central Railroad to do all their grain warehousing business for ten years. In 1856 they built and opened the two large warehouses called "A" and "B," in the city of Chicago, holding each some 800,000 bushels of grain, the marvels of the day. After this date of 1855 Alvah Buckingham spent most of his time at Chicago, and three years later removed his family there. His oldest son Benjamin removed to Chicago also, but died in 1864 at Madison, New Jersey, while on a visit to his father-in-law, Mr. John S. Potwin. Benjamin Buckingham was singularly sincere and just in his dealings with man,—of great Christian purity and behavior; a man of unblemished character, and fine financial knowledge and ability. Philo, the second son, many will recall with melancholy pleasure. He was a large-hearted, generous man; had a full faith, too great, in human nature; generous to a fault; fond of out doors life, agriculture and stock raising being his especial delight. The surviving brother James seems to have combined the qualities of both his brothers in his business and occupation.

In April, 1865, Mr. Alvah Buckingham removed to New York City, where, with his daughters, he resided at No. 13, East 12th St., until his death. His daughter Julia A. had married the Hon. Sam'l S. Cox of Ohio, and the other daughter Elisabeth, had married John A. Hardenbergh of New York. In the spring of 1866, having occasion to locate some lands in the West, Alvah Buckingham took his youngest son James as a companion and traveled through Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas; and though much of this was accomplished in a spring wagon over rough roads, and at the age of seventy-five, it was without any apparent fatigue.

In the spring of 1867 he made a second pilgrimage to the West, this time traveling through Iowa and Nebraska, and passing over the line of the Pacific Railroad as far as it was then finished. He was ambitious to be on the first train through to the Pacific Ocean; but this anticipation was not to be realized.

The summer of 1867 was spent with his family and two daughters, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Hardenbergh, at Saratoga, ending in a most pleasurable trip to the White Mountains. Returning to his N. York home his wife was taken sick with pneumonia, and died Sept. 24, 1867; and her remains were taken to their first home, Putnam, Ohio. In a week Mr. Buckingham was stricken down, and eleven days after his remains reposed by the side of his wife in Woodlawn Cemetery, Putnam, Ohio. He died October 4, 1867.

Mr. Alvah Buckingham was especially distinguished by those who knew his habit and mind; 1st, as a conscientious man; 2d, as a man of unfailing courtesy of demeanor; 3d, as a just, business-like, economic, yet speculative merchant; 4th, as possessing a rare genius for construction of bridges, elevators, houses, &c.; 5th, as a just citizen, who would prefer a sacrifice of his personal interest rather than the least injustice to any one, or to the government; 6th, as a most affectionate husband and indulgent father. For over a half century in the region of Ohio where he lived, he was universally regarded as an honest man above all reproach. (Communicated by a member of the family.)

He married Anna Hale of Glastonbury, Ct., October 3, 1819, who died Sept. 24, at No. 13, East 12th Street, New York. (For an outline pedigree of the Hale Family, see Appendix, Note K.)

Pamelia Buckingham, daughter of Ebenezer and Esther (Bradley) Buckingham, born Aug. 20, 1797; married Julius Chappell Guthrie, in Putnam, Ohio, Sept. 28, 1817. Mr. Guthrie was born in the fort opposite the mouth of the Little Kanawha River, on the north bank of the Ohio River, April 26, 1792, and is said to have been the first child born in that part of the territory. They lived and died in Putnam, Muskingum County, Ohio, on the same lot which was pleasantly situated on the banks of the Muskingum River. Being possessed of a warm heart and sympathizing nature, he had many friends. He was always a strong whig in politics, a warm admirer of Henry Clay, did an extensive business, and by his honorable dealings, drew around him numerous customers. His death occurred July 25, 1849, after a short illness, from inflammation of the bowels, brought on by over exertion in endeavoring to save some new made hay from a coming storm in the field. His wife survived him many years, to be a comfort and solace to her children, who were exceedingly attached to her, and every New Year's day came from far and near to see her and rejoice together. She died in March, 1863, by debility from long suffering with asthma. They both lie buried in Woodland Cemetery, Muskingum County, Ohio, with such of their children as died before them. She was indeed a mother to her children, and he a father to them.

She composed the following lines, which will be read with interest, on receiving a small bouquet of flowers, about three weeks before her decease, Feb. 11, 1854.

Shall I see the spring flowers again?
  Shall I watch the young violets blow?
Shall I wander o'er hillside and glen
  To find where the wild roses grow—
The flowers by the door-stone at home,
  And my favorite lilac tree,
When the sweet, balmy summer, shall come,
  Will they blossom again for me?

When the soft winds of summer shall blow
  The lilies so white and so fair,
By my window will blossom, I know,
  And I never shall welcome them there;
For when the bright summer shall come
  To deck the green earth's sunny bowers,
This world will no more be my home,
  They tell me I'm leaving the flowers.

Well, I trust there's a mansion for me,
  Prepared by a Savior, above;
I feel that his mercy is free,
  I trust I have tasted his love.
And if never again to my view,
  The earth in its verdure is dressed,
There is verdure all fadeless and new,
  In the bright happy home of the blest.

Stephen M. Buckingham, son of Stephen and Polly (Brewster) Buckingham, born at Columbia, Ct., July 12, 1808; was married at Hartford, Ct., to Catharine Sarah Morgan, daughter of William and Orra (Pellet) Morgan, Feb. 12, 1868, in Christ Church, by the Rev. John Brainard, of Auburn, New York. She was formerly of Washington, Berkshire County, Mass. He engaged in early life in mercantile pursuits in New York City, and afterward, having formed an advantageous business connection, went to England, where he resided, most of the time, at Manchester, for a period of fifteen years.

Yours very truly
C. J. Buckingham

On retiring he traveled extensively in the East, visiting Egypt, Syria, Nubia, and adjacent countries, returning through France and England to his native country in the summer of 1850. Since that time he has resided at Rosebank, Poughkeepsie, on the east side of the Hudson river. During the period of his active business life he crossed the Atlantic over twenty times, several passages having been made in the depth of winter, in sailing packets, before the establishment of the Cunard line of steamers. During the last six years he has given much of his time and attention to the Vassar Female College, and to several other important trusts committed to him.

Charles J. Buckingham, son of Stephen and Polly (Brewster) Buckingham, born at Columbia, Ct., July 7, 1810; married, Oct. 16, 1839, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Emily Williams, daughter of Josiah and Martha (Loomis) Williams. Said Emily Williams was born in the city of New York, Jan. 21, 1818, and died at Poughkeepsie, January 26, 1848.

Charles J. Buckingham prepared for College, at Bacon Academy, in Colchester, Ct., and entered Trinity College in 1829, with a view to the ministry in the Episcopal Church. His health failing, his studies were remitted for some time, but again resuming them, he was at length obliged to make a voyage to the Mediterranean for the recovery of his health. After a third attempt he was finally compelled to relinquish his literary pursuits, and make a second voyage to Europe. Subsequently he engaged in mercantile pursuits, there and in New York City, where he resided until he removed to Poughkeepsie, in 1849. For several years he has devoted much of his time to the public schools in that city, and to other educational interests generally.

LUCINA BUCKINGHAM, daughter of Ambrose W. and Eunice (Griffing) Buckingham, born Nov. 8, 1800; married Asa Jones, Dec. 7, 1822. Mr. Jones died, in Salem, Pa., May 2, 1864, aged 72. The following lines were contributed by a near friend, at the time of his decease:

There remaineth a rest for the children of God,
  Where the weary ones calmly repose,
And all who are purified there find a home,
  Since Christ from the sepulchre rose.

And yet, knowing this, for our brother we mourn,
  Since he from the earth passed away;
But what is our loss is surely his gain,
  Then why should we wish him to stay?

There's a far better world, a region of bliss,
  To which his freed spirit has flown—
Where sickness and sorrow and death never come,
  And sin with its pains is unknown.

Though hope's brighter visions are shrouded in gloom,
  And ties fondly cherished are riven—
The cold senseless clay lies low in the tomb,
  The spirit is resting in heaven.

No more on this earth shall the aged Christian dwell;
  His spirit returns to the giver;
The cold arms of death encircle his form,
  That warm heart is silent forever.

Though the bond of affliction falls heavily now,
  And sorrow seems bitter and deep;
There cometh a day when the dead shall arise,
  From death's long and cold, dreamless sleep.

2276. Mary E., " Nov. 17, 18—. Miss Mary E. Buckingham is a young lady of decided ability as a teacher and writer. She has taught schools of a high order, in several different localities. At Hazleton, Penn., she was employed seven years. The following brief notice of her success appeared in the Hazleton Sentinel: "It will be gratifying to the many friends and former pupils of Miss Mary E. Buckingham, to learn that her health is so far restored as to enable her to resume the responsibilities of the school-room, in connection with one of the educational institutions of Scranton. Miss B. was engaged in teaching in this place for seven years. She was always capable, conscientious, and enthusiastic in her profession. The 'immensum-infantemque' is as good a rule for the teacher as the orator—to understand all knowledge, but 'over-much study' prostrated a delicate organism, and failing health induced her to resign her place. We wish her many days of health and happiness in the future."

Another brief notice appeared in one of the local sheets at a later period: "The first effort of the evening was an original Essay, by Miss Buckingham, of Scranton, on the Esthetic Influence of Music. We cannot do justice to this effort in a bare outline report, and therefore do not attempt it. It was couched in poetic language throughout, and contained sentiments the truth of which no one could question. Every listener was held in close attention to the end."

The Essay above was subsequently published, and is thus noticed by the press:—"We publish in another column an Essay on the Esthetic Influence of Music, which was read before the Teachers' Institute, at Providence, last week. The writer, Miss Buckingham, is well known in this community, having conducted a school in this borough for several years with rare ability and success; and that she is a lady of talents and culture, her Essay affords the best evidence. Since leaving Hazleton she has been teaching in Scranton, and has, in that city, sustained a high reputation in her profession. During the present week she has been on a visit to this place, and at the solicitation of many friends has consented to the publication of the Essay referred to. We doubt not it will be appreciated by our readers."

Hon. William Alfred Buckingham, son of Deacon Samuel and Joanna (Matson) Buckingham, born May 28, 1804; was educated at the public and select schools of his native town, and at Bacon Academy, Colchester. He was engaged in farming until he was twenty years of age, when he entered a dry goods store in Norwich as a clerk, where he remained two years, and after spending a short time in a wholesale store in New York, returned in 1826 and established himself in the dry goods business in Norwich. In 1830 he engaged in the manufacture of ingrain carpeting, and, in 1848, relinquished that as well as the dry goods business, and was one of the principal men who organized the Hayward Rubber Company for the manufacture of India Rubber goods. He has been the Treasurer of the Company since its organization. He has taken an active part in the cause of education, has been a liberal benefactor of Yale College, and, with one exception, contributed more money than any other person to endow the Norwich Free Academy, and is the President of the Board of Trustees. He is President of the Connecticut State Temperance Union, a member of the Broadway Congregational Church in Norwich, a corporate member of the American Board of Foreign Missions, and was the Moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches in Boston, in 1865. He was elected Mayor of the City of Norwich in the years 1849, 1850, 1856, and 1857, and Presidential Elector in 1856, but held no other public office until the year 1858, when he was elected Governor, and re-elected seven times, holding the office eight years, when he declined further service. He was one of the four loyal Governors who held office through the rebellion. At the commencement of that struggle the President called for one regiment of troops from Connecticut, and the Governor organized three by voluntary enlistments, which he uniformed, armed, and furnished with baggage train and camp equipage complete for the field. They were the first troops, sent from any State, that were in all respects equipped for active service. This action was assumed as an imperative public necessity, and taken upon the personal responsibility of the Governor. On the first Wednesday of May the General Assembly was convened, which at once ratified the action of the Governor, authorized him to raise ten thousand troops for the defence of the National Government, and placed money under his control to be used for this purpose at his discretion. A subsequent Legislature removed the restriction which limited the number of men, and gave him ample authority and means to meet any requisition which might be made by the President. Under this authority and by the coöperation of his fellow citizens, he raised fifty-four thousand eight hundred and eighty-two men, which was six thousand and eighty-nine more than the quota assigned to the State by the General Government.

In 1868 he was elected to the Senate of the United States to serve six years from the 4th of March, 1869, which position he is now occupying. Of his private character, his business ability, and his public life, this is not the place to speak at length, nor is it necessary, as they are well known in connection with his public services.

He married Eliza Ripley, daughter of Dr. Dwight Ripley, Sept. 27, 1830, by whom he had two children. She died April 19, 1868.

The estimation in which she was held appears in the following extracts from papers published at the time of her decease:

"The community will be saddened this morning to learn of the death of Mrs. William A. Buckingham, which occurred on Sunday afternoon, after a painful illness of a few weeks. This blow will be a very severe one to a very large circle of relatives and friends; and among the most sincere mourners will be many of the poor and unfortunate who have known the bounty of the departed, and with whom her memory will be fragrant. This bereavement to one who has been so honored and beloved as Ex-Governor Buckingham, will awaken a universal sympathy and sorrow throughout the State." "Mrs. Buckingham was a daughter of Major Dwight Ripley, a famous merchant in this city (Norwich) in the early part of the present century. All her life she has been noted as a kind hearted, charitable Christian woman. The poor and needy always found a friend in her, and every good work received from her an earnest and active support." "The deceased in an eminent degree was worthy of the cherished friendship which drew her closely to a wide circle of friends." Her religion consisted in a humble reliance on Christ as her Saviour, in love for him, for his people, and for his cause. She imitated Christ in relieving the wants of the needy, and many poor crowded the house on the day of the funeral, and in tears gave testimony to her unwearied kindness, and to their grief and loss. Her end was peace, and heaven is as much richer as earth is poorer by her departure.

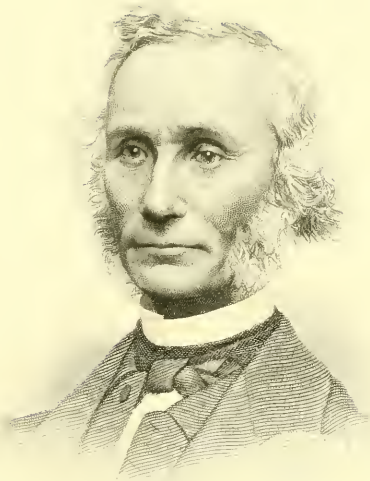
D., son of Deacon Samuel and Joanna (Matson) Buckingham, born Nov. 18, 1812; graduated at Yale College in the class of 1833, and at the Theological Seminary in the class of 1836. In May, 1837, he was ordained Pastor of the Congregational Church in Milbury, Mass., where he remained until he was invited to the South Congregational Church in Springfield, Mass., of which he was installed Pastor June 16, 1847, in which position he still continues. He has given to the Press, a Sermon on the death of Thomas Bond, Esq., 1852; a Memorial of Mrs. Harriet



S. G. Buckingham.

Dutton, wife of his classmate, Rev. S. W. S. Dutton, delivered in New Haven at her funeral in 1864; a Discourse delivered on the National Thanksgiving for Peace, Dec. 7, 1865, at a United Service in Springfield; and a Memorial of the Pilgrim Fathers in 1867, exhibiting the principles and ecclesiastical polity of the founders of the New England churches. In 1869 he received the honorary title of D. D., from the corporation of Yale College. He married, May 10, 1837, Harriet Taylor, second daughter of Rev. Dr. Nathaniel W. Taylor, by whom he had one daughter. He has also an adopted daughter of his wife's sister, Maria Robeson. In 1856 he visited Europe with his wife, who had suffered much from ill health. She died Oct. 22, 1863, lamented by a wide circle of friends. The funeral sermon was preached in Springfield, by his classmate, Dr. S. W. S. Dutton, who paid an affectionate and just tribute to her memory.

Y., and subsequently at Chilicothe, Ohio, where he died in the summer of 1843. The circumstances of his death were deeply affecting. He was shooting birds on his cherry trees with a double-barrelled gun; had fired off the charge in one barrel, and while blowing into the empty barrel the other went off, and the full charge entered his head, killing him instantly. He was a man universally esteemed in the community where he resided, as well as by his early associates in the college and seminary, and by none more so than by the author of this work, who was his classmate through his academic and theological course, and a very intimate friend.

Sandy Spring; the second year in the churches of Hebron and Fairmound, Licking County. In May, 1839, he removed to Coshocton, and took charge of the Second Presbyterian Church, and remained its settled Pastor until May, 1846. He then removed to Canton, and took charge of the First Presbyterian Church, where he still continues in his work. In March, 1866, he buried his wife—"One whose counsels, and prayers, and sympathies, and labors, greatly aided him in his work for the Master. Her name, her virtues, her self-denying labors, are remembered with gratitude, by very many in the congregation in which her life as a Pastor's wife was spent."

In June, 1868, he was married in Hannibal, Missouri, to Miss Elisabeth Horr, a native of Lansingburgh, New York, who for sixteen years was principal of a school for young ladies in Hannibal.

Mr. Buckingham received the honorary degree of D. D. from Western Reserve College, in June, 1869, and was at the same time elected a member of the Board of Trustees of that institution. He was also, at the meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, elected as one of the Directors of the Western Theological Seminary.

Solomon S. Guthrie, son of Julius Chappel and Pamelia (Buckingham) Guthrie, born Aug. 20, 1819; spent his childhood with his father, until the winter of 1837–8, when he went to Gambier, Ohio, to school. In the spring of 1838, returned to his father's store as clerk. In the fall of 1838, his father and brothers established a store, of which he took charge, at Rehoboth, Perry County, Ohio, where he continued until the fall of 1840, when he went to Athens University; and, after six months, returned to the assistance of his father, in his store at Putnam. He remained there till the spring of 1851, when he associated in business with his uncle, Alvah Buckingham, and his sons, Benjamin and Philo, and moved to Buffalo. They opened a commission house, in the name of Buckingham and Guthrie, establishing houses at the same time in Chicago, Toledo, and New York. They continued together in business until the fall of 1855, and in the spring of 1856, Mr. Guthrie associated himself with Cyrus Clarke and Edward Sturges, under the name of "Clarke, Guthrie, and Sturges." They continued together untill the fall of 1857, when

Mr. Guthrie withdrew, and embarked in business on his own account, and has thus continued until the present time.

As a proof of his business capabilities, he has been honored by his fellow citizens with many important offices of trust;—has always been an attendant of Sabbath schools, and for many years acting Superintendent. He is at this time, Superintendent of one of the finest Mission Schools in Buffalo. He connected himself at the age of 15, with the Presbyterian Church—has always been a strict temperance man, never indulging in the use of any beverage but water, and discarding entirely tobacco in every form; in all respects regular and rigid in his habits. Although too old to be drafted, he furnished a substitute for the Union army.

He married, Aug. 30, 1844, Ann Jane Sherwood, daughter of Buckingham and Susan Sherwood, of Newark, Ohio. This Buckingham Sherwood was the son of Albert and Anna (Buckingham) Sherwood. Said Anna Buckingham was born in 1737, the daughter of Stephen and Elisabeth (Sherwood) Buckingham.

* From the Utica Telegraph of July 24, 1865:—" Charles Levi Buckingham, son of Dan P. and Harriet L. Buckingham, was born in Deansville, Oneida County, New York, Jan. 17, 1841, and fitted for College at the Clinton Literary Institute. He entered Hamilton College, and graduated in the class of 1862. Few young men leave college with so many and such various tokens of intellectual superiority. He won prizes in English composition, in elocution, in mathematics, in chemistry, in original oratory, and graduated with one of the highest honors of his class. He studied law a little more than a year in the office of Hon. Charles H. Doolittle, of Utica. But his heart was not with the law books. While he was reading, the fire of patriotism burned within him, and gave him no rest. October 10, 1863, he received a commission as Second Lieutenant in the 146th N. York Volunteers, and immediately started for his regiment. His first engagement was in the battle of the Wilderness, where he was severely wounded, and barely escaped being captured. While at home in July he was commissioned as First Lieutenant. Three days after rejoining his regiment, September 2, 1864, he was shot by a Rebel sharp-shooter, on the Weldon Road, Va., and died three hours after."

The following extract from a comrade's letter shows the circumstances under which he fell:

"The Lieutenant had just been exchanging papers with a rebel officer, and was returning to his own lines, when a cowardly rebel, deliberately and in cold blood, sent after him the death-dealing bullet. It was nothing but downright murder, and as such calls for and will receive the reprobation of all honorable soldiers. This war has revealed so many such instances of cowardice on the part of the rebels, that they cease to claim that attention which their honorable foes merit."

Another account, by a correspondent of the New York Herald, of Sept. 4:

"Yesterday there was a sad occurrence on the picket line of the Weldon Road, near head-quarters. On Thursday two of our officers went out to the farthest line of pickets and established a truce a short time with two rebel officers. A pleasant chat was had and an interchange of newspapers, and when about separating an invitation was given to renew the intimacy on the following day. The next day (Friday), Lieut. Buckingham of the 146th New York Volunteers, who had just recovered from wounds received in the battle of the Wilderness, and Lieut. Greene of the 5th New York, went out to meet the officers by appointment. They noticed that the rebels were cold and distant; but, not suspecting treachery, exchanged papers, and prepared to leave for our lines. They had not proceeded far when both had occasion to regret their temerity in visiting men who had so often proved themselves false to all sentiments of honor and humanity. Two sharp-shooters, concealed from view, fired upon them, wounding Lieut. Buckingham in the bowels, the ball passing through him. He lived but three hours. Lieut. Greene was wounded in the leg, but though painful the wound will not prove fatal. To characterize the act as anything else than cold-blooded murder would be compounding with felony and ignoring the first principles of honor and the recognized usages of both ancient and modern warfare."

The body of young Buckingham was conveyed to his home in Utica, where appropriate funeral rites were performed.

The following account of the funeral ceremonies is found in the Utica Morning Herald of September 15th:

"The body of the brave and gifted young Buckingham was yesterday committed to its final resting place in Forest Hill Cemetery. A large concourse of friends, classmates, acquaintances and others, assembled at the Church of the Reconciliation, at two o'clock, and listened with hushed interest, solemn faces, and sympathizing hearts, to the last sad services over the loved and lifeless form. The funeral cortege entered the church preceded by President Fisher and Prof. Upson of Hamilton College, and the Rev. Dr. Fowler of this city. White flowers and the dear flag, in fit and beautiful arrangement, adorned and draped the coffin, symbolizing or suggesting the brave mortal life and its well earned fame and the immortal future of the rejoicing soul. An opening piece having been sung by the choir, 'Cast thy burdens upon the Lord,' &c., Prof. Upson read the 90th Psalm; then was sung Mrs. Sigourney's hymn:

"As bowed by sudden storms the rose
Sinks on the garden's breast,
Down to the grave our brother goes
In silence, there to rest."

Rev. Dr. Fowler offered a touching prayer, which was followed by the hymn:

"Farewell, what power of words can tell
The sorrows of a last farewell."

Dr. Fowler now addressed the congregation and mourners some excellent remarks, fraught with instructive consolation. He said that "Great causes demanded great sacrifices. This is the universal law of the Divine administration. God does not even exempt himself from it. He gave his only begotten Son to save the world. If we would save ourselves and others, if we would bless our community, our country, and our race, we must submit to sacrifice and suffering, and the greater the end to be attained, the greater the sacrifice that must be made. We can see the wisdom of the arrangement. To be happy, holy, noble, we must destroy our selfishness, and it must be killed by violence. The magnates of the world have been the martyrs of the world. We have fallen upon times that try men's souls—try them in the sense of testing them, whether mean and selfish, or good, generous, noble,—times which discipline them too. A cause is at stake involving human Freedom, for our day, at least, and human destiny to a great extent throughout the world.

Thank God that men are found to make the sacrifices it requires. Noble men they are. But those who go to the conflict are not the only sacrificing ones. To give up father, brother, husband, son—there is no greater sacrifice than this. To-day we have gathered around the body of a youth who has given himself for a great cause. This is his sufficient Eulogy. Fraternal and filial as a brother and son, genial and generous in his disposition. Genius and intellect conferred upon him their highest gifts. At college, academy, and school, he outstripped all his associates."

Referring to the graduation of the deceased, Dr. Fowler briefly sketched his career from that time to his death. "He died five hours after being struck by the murderous bullet, retaining his consciousness during the time; composed, and occupying his dying moments in sending messages of affection to the loved ones at home. Addressing himself to the mourning friends, the speaker asked if there was not some sweetness to relieve their bitterness, and pointed out the compensations."

Prof. Upham paid a high tribute to the memory of young Buckingham. Referring to their former relations of teacher and pupil in Hamilton College, he said he had rarely met a young man who had so ready an intellect. He grasped the most difficult problems and propositions with astonishing quickness, and was especially distinguished as a speaker and writer. He spoke with an eloquence that is rare among men. Of the six young men selected from his class to compete for an honorable prize (the Clark prize), three had already died for their country, and the successful competitor was now lying there before them. Out of a class of thirty to which he belonged five had laid down their lives in the same cause. Is it a waste? No! Thank God it is not a waste. Thank God that we have young men ready to lay down their lives for their country, and that we have a country for which they may die. The names of Bacon, Curran, and Buckingham will be forever immortal in the history of this country. We have not yet done all we could. Life is not measured by years. Young Buckingham has acquired a wealth of honor, by his death, which none of us can acquire by a long life."

President Fisher added his tribute to those that had been spoken. In the summer of 1861 the students of Hamilton College purchased a flag for the college.

It was unfurled and presented to him one afternoon. The friend whose body lay before him was appointed by his fellow students to make the presentation. In doing so he made a short, eloquent, most pertinent speech, in which he expressed his desire to serve his country. He has served his country, and his body now lies here. I feel as if I was a mourner, and as if we were all mourners. He has died for you—for you and me. He took our place, and as our substitute fought and fell. I trust we come hither with a feeling of gratitude for what he has done for us. The speaker said that young Buckingham entered college the year he took the Presidency. His was one of the brightest minds he ever knew. The rapidity with which he mastered his studies was wonderful. Usually students excel in some particular branch of study, but Buckingham seemed to excel in all. His mind seemed to act in one direction almost as well as another. Whatever he undertook he mastered with wonderful facility, and was able to present it with great clearness and power. I had anticipated the time when he should stand forth as one of the brightest minds in the nation. But he has won a brighter fame than he could in civil pursuits, for he has died for his country. President Fisher closed his remarks by eloquently urging upon his hearers the claims of patriotism in this trying hour. A prayer by Dr. Fisher and singing by the choir concluded the interesting services, when the remains were conveyed to the cemetery."

MARIA JONES, daughter of Asa and Lucina (Buckingham) Jones, born Jan. 24, 1841; married William McMullen, and died soon after marriage—Feb. 15, 1867—and left no children. The following lines were contributed soon after her decease:—

" Weep not for me," the sufferer said,
  " I do not fear to die,
I know that I am going home
  To that bright world on high.

" 'Tis sad to leave my husband here
  To tread life's path alone;
But Jesus calls, I must obey,
  And stand before his throne."

And thus she calmly sank away
  To her eternal rest;
They placed her in that narrow bed,
  The sods above her breast.

Sad-hearted friends who mourn for her,
  Though tears of sorrow fall,
Remember that in heaven and earth,
  Jehovah ruleth all.

Time, soon or late, to all must bring
  The dreamless sleep of death;
O'er earth he spreads his languid wing
  To crush our feeble breath.

ELIZA COIT BUCKINGHAM, daughter of Hon. William A. and Eliza (Ripley) Buckingham, born Dec. 7, 1838; married Gen. Wm. A. Aiken, Aug. 28, 1862.

Gen. Aiken was one of Gov. Buckingham's staff during the war of the Rebellion, and was the first to reach the seat of government with dispatches from the North, when Washington was beset with enemies, and the avenues of approach to the Capital were obstructed. The account of Gen. Aiken's trip to Washington with dispatches for the government, brings fresh to mind the intense excitement of those days, and it contains some very striking touches of description of the state of things at the Capital.

"Gen. Aiken left Norwich at 6 o'clock, A. M., on Monday, April 22, 1861. On reaching Philadelphia that evening, he found the city extremely stirred up, and all regular communication with Washington suspended. He there met a gentleman who also wished to reach Washington, and the two spent most of the night in searching for the means of proceeding.

At four next morning, they got permission to set out on a special train, with a Pennsylvania regiment, and, after a very slow journey, in consequence of the danger of finding the track torn up, reached Perryville, on the Susquehannah road, at ten. Gen. Butler had carried off the ferry boats to Annapolis, and, after delay and search, our two travelers hired a skiff, and crossed to Havre de Grace, where they found not only the town was full of reports of railroads and telegraphs broken up, in all directions, but that there were plenty of men watching to see "how many d——d Yankees," as they called them, were going towards Washington. Gen. Aiken and his friend, however, after a time, chartered a covered wagon and rode to Baltimore, about nine and a half, P. M. The streets were brilliantly lighted and full of people, some of them in uniforms, and most of them wearing rebel badges, and even the few words which the travelers heard as they passed along the crowded halls of their hotel, apprized them that no man could avow Unionism there, and preserve his life in safety for a moment. They accordingly went at once to their rooms, and kept out of sight until morning, when the hotel proprietor, a personal friend of Gen. Aiken's companion, and also of the leading Baltimore rebels, procured them papers signed by Gen. Winder and countersigned by Marshal Kane. Having these, they paid fifty dollars for a carriage which took them to Washington. Reaching Washington at ten, P. M., on Wednesday, Gen. Aiken found its silence and emptiness a startling contrast to the hot-blooded crowd at Baltimore. He says, "Half a dozen people in the hall of the hotel crowded around to ask questions about the North. I then began to realize the isolation of the city. Hurrying to Gen. Scott's headquarters, the old chief was found with only two of his staff. Upon reading the Governor's letter he rose, and said, excitedly, "Sir, you are the first man I have seen with a written dispatch, for three days. I have sent men out every day, to bring intelligence of the Northern troops. Not one of them has returned. Where are the troops?" The number and rapidity of the questions and his very excited manner, gave me a further realization of the critical nature of the situation."

Calling on Secretary Cameron, Gen. Aiken was received very much in the same manner. A friend in one of the Departments advised very strongly against a return by the same route, "as my arrival was known and the general nature of my business suspected by rebel spies, with which the city abounded, and in some quarters least suspected. How the knowledge of my affairs could have been gained has always been a mystery, for I had realized, since leaving Philadelphia, that my personal safety depended entirely upon secrecy and prudence. At ten, A. M., I called on the President, and saw him for the first time in my life. It was an interview I can never forget. No office-seekers were about the presence that day. There was no delay in getting an audience. Mr. Lincoln was alone, seated in his business room up stairs, looking towards Arlington Heights, through a widely opened window. Against the casement stood a very long spy-glass, which he obviously had been using. I gave him all the information I could from what I had seen and heard during my journey. He seemed depressed beyond measure as he asked, slowly and with great emphasis, 'what is the North about? Do they know our condition?' I said, no, they certainly did not when I left. This was true enough. He spoke of the non-arrival of the troops under Gen. Butler, and of having had no intelligence from them for two or three days.

I have referred to the separation of the city from the North. In no one of many ways was it brought home more practically to my mind than in this. The funds in my possession were in New York City Bank notes. Their value in Washington had suddenly and totally departed. They were good for their weight in paper—no more. During my interview with the president my financial dilemma was referred to. I remarked that I had not a cent, although my pockets were full. He instantly perceived my meaning, and kindly put me in possession of such an amount of specie as I desired. Having delivered my despatch and the Governor's words of encouragement, and enjoyed an interview protracted by the President's desire beyond ordinary length, I left." The New York 7th reached the city just as

Gen. Aiken had walked from the President's house to the State Department, and when the flag announcing their arrival at the Baltimore Railroad Station was hoisted, says Gen. Aiken, "such a stampede of humanity, loyal and rebel, as was witnessed that hour in the direction of the Baltimore Railroad Station, can only be imagined by those who, like myself, took part in it. One glance at the gray jackets of the 7th put hope in the place of despondency in my heart." Gen. Aiken returned by taking a private conveyance and obscure roads until, north of the Pennsylvania line, he reached a railroad, and at Hanover, the first telegraph station, reported progress to Gov. Buckingham, having been unable to communicate with him during four days, and not having seen the United States flag once during the whole trip from Philadelphia around to the Pennsylvania line, except on the Capitol at Washington. Gen. Aiken, in concluding his account, says, undoubtedly with correctness, "There has been no hour since that when messages of sympathy, encouragement, and aid, from the loyal governor of a loyal State were more truly needed, or more effective upon the mind of our late President, than those I had the honor to deliver."

Gideon Buckingham, one of the executors nominated in said testament, accepted the trust of executor. [Vol. 4, page 4.]

The last Will and Testament of Daniel Buckingham, of Milford, in the Colony of Connecticut, New England, being sick in body but of sound mind :—

I do, after my just debts are paid, dispose of my worldly goods as followeth :

Imprimis, I give to my beloved wife, Alice, my land lying in the Indian side, near the little bridge, being four acres, more or less.

Item, I give to my beloved son, Thomas, ye several parcels of land next mentioned, viz :

1. Two acres of salt meadow, lying in the Great Meadow, and bounded with Lieut. Baldwin's free way, east ; the highway, north.

2. Thirty acres of land, part at Esek and a part at Burnt Plain, or the whole at Burnt Plain, as he shall choose.

3. Twelve acres of land lying in the Indian side, near ye old gate.

Item, I give to my beloved sons, Gideon and Josiah, my land at the Rock, to be equally divided between them, except five acres, which I give to my grandson Benjamin.

Item, My land lying in the old field on the east side of the path, I give to my sons Gideon and Josiah, and to my grandson Benjamin, to be equally divided between them.

Item, I give to my son Gideon, ye land in ye mill lot, bounded with my son Langstaff's land, west ; John Plumb, north ; ye creek, east and south.

Item, I give to my sons, Gideon and Josiah, and my grandson Benjamin, twenty acres apiece at Marshy Hill.

Item, I give to my son Gideon, that part of my home lot at present in his possession.

Item, I give to my son Josiah, that part of my home lot at present in his possession.

Item, I give to my grandson Benjamin the other part of my home lot, at this time in the occupation of George Clark.

Item, I give to my sons, Gideon and Josiah, two acres of meadow, at the Round Meadow.

Item, I give to my sons, Gideon and Josiah, three acres of land in ye Bear Neck.

Item, I give to my grandson Benjamin, three acres in ye Bear Neck.

Item, I give my part and right in ye saw-mill to my sons Gideon and Josiah.

Item, I give to my sons, Gideon and Josiah, five acres lying in Beachy Swamp.

Item, My land near Odin Plain, I give to my sons, Gideon and Josiah, my daughter Hannah, and my grandson Benjamin, according as they now possess it.

Item, I give to my son Josiah, two acres and a half of land in ye point from ye creek to ye highway, bounded with Plumb's land, north.

Item, I give to my beloved daughter Hannah, my land lying at ye Mill Bridge, by estimate being fourteen acres, more or less.

Item, I give to my daughter Langstaff, two acres in ye old field, lying on ye west side of the highway.

Item, I give to my daughter Langstaff, and her son Bethuel, twenty acres at Marshy Hill.

Item, I give to my daughter Langstaff, and her heirs, one-fourth part of the meadow lying upon the Island in Stratford River. I do appoint my sons Thomas and Gideon, to be executors of this, my last Will and Testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this first day of May, in ye year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and twelve. Signed, sealed, and declared to be his last will and testament.

DANIEL $^{c}/_{o}$ BUCKINGHAM.

Will of Samuel Buckingham, second son of Thomas Buckingham, the settler. New Haven Probate records, vol. 2, page 256.

Oct. 6, 1692. Be it known to all whom it may concern, y^t I, Samuel Buckingham, Senior, of Milford, in ye county of New Haven, in ye Colony of Connecticut, in New England, being by the Word of God, as also by many and full providences, put in mind of my final state here, and of finishing my course, yet being in some comfortable measure of health, with usual use of understanding and memory, do make this, my last Will and testament, in manner and form following:—

Imprimis, I desire, in faith and humility, to commit and commend myself into the hands of God, as a merciful Creator, and as a faithful Redeemer who hath said, "Look to me and be ye saved;" and I hope he hath made me willing so to do for righteousness and strength, and desire to wait on him, in the way of faith, and obedience, until my change come.

Item, My body, after my decease, in a Christian manner to be buried where my executors shall see meet.

Item, The worldly goods with which God hath he trusted me, I dispose as followeth:

Item, My will is, and unto my true and loving wife Sarah, I do give the one-half of my dwelling-house, and half the orchard, and four acres of land in ye Neck, next to Capt. Eells his land, and my meadow in the Great Meadow, and that part of meadow on ye Indian side of the cartway, with the two middle pieces of land in ye lot at ye barne, and four acres in ye middle of my land on Burnt Plain y^t is broken up, and the same breadth through the pasture, unto Mr. Whitman his land, with one-third part of ye land at the Neck gate; also, five acres of land in Eseck, which was my mother's land, during the time of her natural life.

Item, Unto my son-in-law, Barnabus Baldwin, that married my daughter Sarah, I do, by will, give the full and just sum of five shillings, to be paid by my executors.

Item, I give unto my grandchild, Thomas Baldwin, the eldest son of my daughter Sarah, deceased, if he live, so long as he or any heir, lawfully begotten of his own body, live to enjoy it, that two acres of land which I bought of Sylvanus Baldwin; but if he die and have no heir, male or female, of his own body, lawfully begotten, then my will is that my grandchild, Barnabus Baldwin, the youngest son of my daughter Sarah, deceased, if he live, so long as he or any heir, lawfully begotten of his own body, live to enjoy it, I say the above two acres of land; but after his or their decease, then my will is that it shall return unto my children or grandchildren, and their heirs, forever.

Item, My will is that if my grandchild, Barnabus Baldwin, the youngest son of my daughter Sarah, deceased, live to complete the age of twenty-one years, then I do give him the sum of six pounds, to be paid him by my executors.

Item, I do, by this my last will, give unto my daughter Ann Buckingham, the sum of fifty pounds, and she shall have two acres of my pasture land in Eseck as a part of the sum above mentioned.

Item, I do give unto my daughter Ruth Buckingham, the sum of fifty pounds. She shall have, as a part of said sum, two acres of my pasture land in Eseck.

Item, I do give, by this my last will, to my daughter Esther Buckingham, the sum of fifty pounds. She shall have, as part of the sum, two acres of my pasture land in Eseck.

Item, I do give and bequeath unto my son Samuel Buckingham, besides the dwelling house he now liveth in, with the barn belonging to it, with one acre of the home lot at the west end of my home lot, with the appurtenances belonging to that acre of home lot which I have already given unto him, and to his heirs, and beside of the six acres of upland which I have sold unto him at Burnt Plain, between that said land and the land willed to his deare mother, at the furthermost part of the lot at the barne in the woods as also the reversion of the farthermost part of the aforesaid lot in the woods, as also the right and intalement of the land in the Bare Neck, if it please God to give and continue to him an heir, according to the intale laid upon it, as also the third part of the land at the Neck gate.

Item, My will is, and I do hereby give, unto my youngest son, Thomas Buckingham, ye one-half of the dwelling house that I now live in, and the barne belonging unto it, with the one-half of the home lot on the east side of the old ditch, and the half of the orchard, (the other half is willed unto his dear mother, as also my dear wife is to have the fruit of the old orchard that is on the east of my son Samuel's acre aforesaid, as also I do reserve an interest in both my barnes for my wife her use), as also the present enjoyment of the hitherward part of upland, a part of that lot in the woods that the barne stands on, and also the reversion of the two middle parts to him, of ye lott the barne stands on, as also ye land at the Burnt Plain, next to his own land that I have sold to him for a valuable consideration, by me received, I say between that and the land willed unto his dear mother, the breadth of that land from the highway unto Mr. Whitman's land, as also the one-third part at ye Neck Gate.

Item, My will is that all my other lands and meadows and pasture lands undisposed of by the will, I give unto my two sons, Samuel Buckingham and Thomas Buckingham, to be equally divided between them.

Item, I give an equal interest in my barn in the woods unto my two sons, Samuel and Thomas Buckingham.

Item, My will is, and hereby I give unto my son Thomas Buckingham, the reversion of the other half of my dwelling house and barn at home, with the other part of that home lot unto the old ditch.

Item, My will is, that after my loving wife her decease, the land and meadow and pasture ground I leave for her improvement y^t^ is not already settled by will, shall be equally divided between my two sons, to wit: Samuel Buckingham and Thomas Buckingham, they paying sixteen pounds apiece within two years after the reversion of these lands come into their hands, if they live till then, or if they leave any children lawfully begotten of their own bodies; and if it please God that any of my daughters die before marriage, or leave no children or child of their own body, lawfully begotten, then my will is, that the lands mentioned for part of their portions, shall then return to my children, or the survivors of them, brethren and sisters, equally.

Item, My will is, that if either of my two sons, Samuel or Thomas Buckingham, die and leave no heirs or heir of their own bodies, lawfully begotten, then two third parts of his or their lands shall immediately return unto the child or children of the other brother, if he have any; if not, then to be to my daughters' or their children, to the male children, or females, if no males, or if either of my sons die leaving an heir of his body, if his said heir die and leave no lawful heir of his own body, lawfully begotten, at his or her decease the said lands shall return unto my children or grandchildren surviving, and, farther, in case either of my sons die and have no heir, as aforesaid, then at the decease of his or their wives, or the child without heir, as aforesaid, then the other third part of his or their lands shall return, as aforesaid.

Item, I give to my three daughters, viz: Ann Buckingham, Ruth Buckingham, and Esther Buckingham, that parcel of land in the Point, next unto Theophilus Baldwin, to be divided between them equally. But if either of them die and leave no heirs of their own body, lawfully begotten, then the land shall return to the survivors of them; but if none, then it shall return to my sons, or sons of their children.

Item, My will is, that if either of my daughters above named, marry, and dwell in the town, much want a place to build on, they shall have half an acre or three roods of my land at the Neck Gate, next to the Gate, and so down the hill. If they build on it and die and leave no heir of their own body, lawfully begotten, my will is that any of my two sons, or their heirs, shall have liberty to buy the land and buildings thereon, of them in whose hands they shall be. If they cannot agree, indifferent men shall set the price.

Item, I do, by will, reserve liberty for my unmarried children to live in my dwelling house until married, if they provide not for themselves other where to their content.

Item, I do give unto my son Samuel Buckingham, the remainder of the old orchard, from his own land to the old ditch, and by my will he shall make and maintain all ye dividing lines about it. By virtue of this will my son Thomas shall maintain no more fence between him and our neighbors than now we do against this part of the home lot.

Item, I do give unto my true and loving wife, Sarah Buckingham, ten pounds of my movable estate, what she shall choose; and also I do give unto her ten pounds of my estate to help to bring up my young children. Further, in case either of my sons die or leave no heir lawfully begotten, then my will is that then that parcel of upland that lieth on the west side of the highway at Burnt Plain, and the four acres of meadow at Ad^{m} Plaine, shall be to my three daughters and their heirs, or the survivors of them, forever, to be equally divided.

Item, I do, by this, my last will, nominate, constitute, and appoint my true and loving wife, Sarah Buckingham, and my sons Samuel and Thomas Buckingham, them three, to be the executors of this my last will and testament, or the major part of them, or any one of them if the other two be dead, or by the providence of God disenabled to act in it for ye confirmation of this to be my last will and testament. I have hereunto put my hand and seal, this third of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and ninety-two.

SAMUEL BUCKINGHAM.

Signed, sealed, and delivered, to be my last will and testament, in the presence of

DANIEL BUCKINGHAM,
JOSIAH PLATT.

Witnesses sworn in Court.

Samuel and Thomas Buckingham declared in court that they apprehended that the sixteen pounds apiece ordered to be paid by them as executors in ye said will, but not to whom, by said will, was meant or intended by the deceased to be paid to their sisters or their survivors, upon reversion of said lands to them, said Samuel and Thomas Buckingham.

A will of Attawanhood, third son of Uncas, is signed March 10th, 1676, in Lyme, near Eight-Mile Island, in Connecticut River. He gave to his sons a large tract of land, apparently north-west of Saybrook, with the condition that if one died it should go to the survivor, and if both died, to their sister. He also left them forty acres at Podunk, and about half a mile square within a tract which had a little previously been added to Hartford. These lands, if his three sons died, were to revert to his wives. The rest of his property was given away in enormous tracts, to various white persons of Hartford, Saybrook, and other places. Whole townships, as, for instance, those of Windham, Mansfield, and Canterbury, were included. A single grant covered 100,000 acres, and the whole line of lands reached eighteen miles north and south, and in some places east and west. The Indians who then resided on his territories, he directed to leave them and attach themselves to his father, Uncas. His sons he directed to live near Saybrook, to be taught English by their mother, and, at the end of four years to be placed at an English school. Thirty-five pounds which were owing to him by certain whites, as well as the rents of all the lands which he had left the boys were to be expended in their support and education. He recommended his children earnestly to all his legatees, but more particularly to three whom he mentioned by name—Robert Chapman, William Pratt, and Thomas Buckingham. For himself, he directed that he should be buried at Saybrook, in a coffin, after the manner of the English.*

An abstract of the will of Rev. Thomas Buckingham, of Saybrook, taken from Probate records at New London.

The will is dated 14th of March, 1708–9, on his death-bed.

1. Provides for decent Christian burial.
2. " payment of debts.

Then comes bequests.

1. To Mary, his wife, he gives one-third of all his real estate, and one-third of all his movables, except only his two negro boys. Farther, as a token of his affection, three silver spoons, worth four shillings a pair, should be provided for her, marked with his and her name.

2. To his oldest son, Thomas Buckingham, £50 in money.

3. To his second son, Daniel, the least of his silver cups, that which was Edward Lorey's.

4. To his son Stephen, of Norwalk, all of his books, which he valued at £25 in money.

5. To my son Hezekiah, my negro boy Peter, to be his slave servant, which he values a £40—half of the same to be paid back again to his executors, to be disposed of in legacies to his grandchildren.

6. To his son-in-law, John Kirtland, his negro boy Philip, valued at £50—half to be paid back again to his executors, for the purpose before mentioned.

7. To his granddaughter, Hester Beaumont, £20 in money, when she shall arrive at the age of eighteen, or on the day of her marriage.

8. To the three other of his grandchildren, (the adult) Thomas, Hester, Ann, and Mary, four shillings each. To all the rest of his grandchildren, twenty shillings each, males twenty-one, daughters eighteen, at time of payment.

9. All the remainder of his estate to be equally divided between his four sons and two daughters.

The sons to have the real estate, and to make up to the daughters their share in case the movable estate amount not to so much.

Lastly, Thomas and Daniel, his sons, are appointed executors.

Will proved 8th of June, 1709.

Inventory taken 21st of April, 1709. The whole amount not stated.

The homestead was valued at £100. The plate enumerated consisted of eight spoons, one tankard, one large cup, two smaller cups, and two salt cellars, one set of bed curtains, with valance and silk fringe, six chairs with Turkey-work curtains, one chest, distinguished by inlaid work. These were the only items of interest beyond good substantial furniture, according to the style of the age.

Indenture between Thomas and Daniel Buckingham, of Saybrook, sons of Rev. Thomas Buckingham, vide Lebanon Records, Vol. 9, p. 423, extracted by Rev. Samuel G. Buckingham.

Whereas, the parties to these presents have purchased a farm in the townships of Windham and Lebanon, which was formerly part of their honored father's, Rev. Mr. Thomas Buckingham, late of Saybrook, deceased, and the other part thereof Abimeleck's, Joshua's (Uncas) son, which contains, by estimation, about 530 acres, more or less, lying and being on the southwest side of Willimanticuck River, bounded as followeth: The first bound begins at the mouth of Hop River, and runs 49½ rods upon the river, to a walnut staddle, marked "——, etc." Again, one of the bounds is a maple staddle, marked "T. D. B." It is signed and sealed at Saybrook, by Daniel Buckingham, May 24, 1722. Witnessed by Samuel Buckingham and Daniel Buckingham. Recorded, February 15, 1760.

Deed of Abimeleck, Joshua's son, of six hundred acres of wilderness land, joining lands belonging to Thomas Buckingham, Senior, and John Clark, of Saybrook, dated Dec. 7th, 1702. Recorded at Lebanon, February 15, 1760.

There is also a deed of William Pitkin, of Hartford, and others, to Thomas and Daniel Buckingham, of Saybrook, of a certain farm or tract of land, sometimes called "Buckingham's Farm," being, by estimation, about 850 acres, lying southerly from the plantation of Coventry, and abuts west on Willimantuck River, north on Hop River, west by land released to us by the said grantees, south on land sold to Capt. William Clark and Deacon Josiah Dewey, and part on land released to us by the abovesaid grantees; and also one hundred acres more adjoining to said farm, southwest and northwest. March 19, 1712, or 1713.

Witnessed by Abigail Lord and Margaret Butler. Entered, Feb. 15, 1760.

Lands of Thomas Buckingham, Jun., in Lebanon.

In volume 6 of Lebanon Records, is what is entitled "The Village Proprietors' Patent," which comprises the title of the individuals within mentioned (a large number) to their lands, which belongs to Thomas Buckingham and John Clark. It begins, "Whereas, Thomas Buckingham and John Clark, both of Saybrook, in the County of New London, Colony of Connecticut, having purchased a large tract of land of Abimeleck, an Indian, a parcel of which they did, by deed well executed, bearing date Sept. 20, A. D. 1699, convey unto William Clark, Esq., lately of Lebanon, now deceased, and Josiah Dewey, of Lebanon, which is now in the County of Windham, and Colony of Connecticut aforesaid. And whereas, the said William Clark and Josiah Dewey have conveyed a certain parcel thereof, lying in the town-ship of Lebanon aforesaid." It bounds it from the west side of Capt. John Mason's land to run northerly, leaving a mile at the upper end to the river Willimantock, or Shetucket, against Windham, and "to hold a straight line until it come within a mile and a quarter of Hartford gentlemen's land, then bounded by a west line until it come to Saybrook men's land, south by the west line that divides between Abimeleck and Owaneco. Agreed on by the Commissioners appointed by the General Courts." Recorded at New London, Sept. 21, 1699. On the next page is an agreement signed by Buckingham and Clark, securing to the same a clear title to the land.

In volume 4, of Land records, in Lebanon, is the following entry: "I, Thomas Buckingham, of Saybrook, for and from good considerations of love, good-will, and affection which I have and do bear towards my son Samuel Buckingham, of the town, county, and colony aforesaid," give 320 acres in the town of Lebanon, valued at £200, May 24, 1722.

In volume 8, of Lebanon Records, is the following entry: "Indenture made March 28, 1711, between Thomas and Daniel Buckingham, of Saybrook, and James Badcock, of Windham, of the County of Hartford." They had purchased a farm, what was formerly Mr. Thomas Buckingham's and Mr. John Clark's, of Saybrook, containing, by estimation, 500 acres, lying on the southwest side of Willimanticock River, beginning at a tree marked "T. B. & J. C.," then it makes a division of the same. There are other singular entries, but the above are sufficient to show that he was a large landholder in Lebanon. Some of this land he held by purchase, but probably more of it by gift from his father, who held large tracts as one of the legatees of Attawanhood, the son of Uncas, in connexion with Robert Chapman and William Pratt.

Lands of Daniel Buckingham, son of Rev. Thomas Buckingham, in Lebanon.

Vol. 8. "Deed of Abimeleck, Joshua's son, of six hundred acres of wilder.

ness land, joining land belonging to Thomas Buckingham, Sen., and John Clark, of Saybrook, dated Dec. 7, 1702."

Deed of William Pitkin, of Hartford, and others, to Thomas and Daniel Buckingham, of Saybrook, of a certain farm or tract of land, sometimes called "Buckingham's Farm," being, by estimation, about 850 acres, lying southerly from the plantation of Coventry, and abuts west on Willimantuck River, north on the Hop River, west by land released to us by the said grantees, south on land sold to Capt. William Clark and Deacon Josiah Dewey, in part, and part on land released to us by the aboves^d grantees; and also 100 acres more adjoining to said farm, southwest and northwest. March 19, 1712 or 1713.

Note "I."

Lands assigned to Mr. Buckingham as a part of his salary. The deed of the lands granted to Mr. Buckingham as his settlement, bears date April 7, 1699.

1. One home lot, four acres, bounded east by the land of Thomas Betts, and the common fence, partly; west, the town's highway; north, the home lot of Thomas Seamer; south, land and home lot of heirs of John Raymond, Senior, deceased, with the house which is now built.

2. Land in the field, swamp and upland, sixteen acres; one-half to him and his heirs forever, the other half, after his decease, to return to the town.

3. Ten acres of upland lying in the woods, lying near the town over the North Brook, so called.

4. Three score acres of land in the woods, bounded by marked trees, adjoining part of the land of Samuel Hayes and Ensign John Belden, above Chestnut Hill.

5. Salt marsh meadows, two acres, bounded east by the Cove, and north and northwest by the bank of upland, south by a fence and a small creek near John Bouton's meadow.

6. Three hundred pounds right in commonage.

Note "J."

The will of Mary Buckingham, in the 8th volume of Lebanon Records.

The will of Mary Buckingham, widow and relict of Mr. Thomas Buckingham, late of Saybrook, deceased, now of Lebanon, dated April 23, 1771, "aged and infirm," gives property—

1. To her two grandsons, Stephen and Ambrose, "only surviving children of my beloved son Stephen, deceased, late of Saybrook," she gives land—fourteen and one-half acres of the "Bochim Farm, in Saybrook, and land laid out to me on my Pantapaug quarter, right adjoining to the abovesaid land," and "all laid out adjoining to the land my son Stephen was possessed of at his death."

2. She gives Stephen and Ambrose all her "right in the town commons and in Pantapaug quarter," when twenty-one years of age.

3. In case they die without heirs, gives it to her son Jedediah, on condition that if Stephen or Ambrose shall ever call upon, sue, or any ways perplex my son Jedediah on account of the estate my daughter Mary died siezed of, and which, to my knowledge, my son Stephen, now deceased, and my son Jedediah, settled in their life time, "and in case they distress Jedediah on account of Mary's estate, Jedediah shall have the whole she has willed them."

4. She gives to her son Jedediah, use of lands at Saybrook, till her grandsons arrive at the age of twenty-one.

5. She gives Jedediah all the rest; i. e., her personal estate.

6. She appoints Jedediah sole executor.

Proved December 25, 1771.
